OUSTER HEARING AGAINST LENGEL COMES TO END

COMMISSION WILL OFFER DECISION IN HEARING MONDAY

Defense Fails To Call Witnesses As Case Closed

CANTON, O., Sept. 10.—The hearing of ouster charges against S. A. Lengel, suspended chief of police, came to an abrupt end before the civil service commission today.

When the testimony against Lengel was completed this morning, Lengel's attorneys announced no defense witnesses would be called.

Arguments made by attorneys for both sides and then the commission announced it would make public its decision Monday. Lengel was suspended by Mayor S. M. Swarts for inefficiency and neglect of duty in the sensational shake up of the police force that followed the brutal murder of Don R. Mellett.

CANTON, O., Sept. 10.—Carl Studer, underworld chieftain, missing since late yesterday after two perjury charges were filed against him, surrendered to police today. He was arrested by Detective George Bresford.

One of the perjury warrants charges Studer gave false testimony under oath when he told the civil service commission during yesterday's hearing of ouster charges against Police Chief Lengel, that he had no connection with a house of ill fame in Fourth St. occupied by Ruth Gordon, a painted woman of the underworld. The woman swore she split the profits of the house "50-50" with Studer and that he paid the rent and attended to the fines when the inmates were arrested.

The other warrant charges perjury when Studer swore that he did not visit Miss Gordon Wednesday night to collect his share of the day's earnings. Ruth swore she paid Studer $12 Wednesday night, that being fifty per cent of the day's receipts at the vice house.

The first direct evidence of graft linked with Police Chief Lengel came late yesterday when Mamie Lee told of having paid Lengel and former Safety Director E. E. Curtis $50 a week for "protection" of two vice houses she operated in Canton.

ITALIAN FAMILIES PROVE PROLIFIC

ROME, Sept. 10.—Premier Mussolini's recent investigation of large Italian families has revealed 20,000 reasons why Italy dislikes the American immigration law which virtually has closed the United States to the surplus populations of southern Europe.

The investigation showed that there were living in Italy, 20,000 mothers who had borne more than ten children. The annual increase in the Italian population is about 500,000, and while Mussolini anxiously searches for areas suitable for settlement by the surplus sons of Italy, he is well satisfied with this guarantee against race suicide.

"Prolific we are and prolific we intend to remain," said the premier as he scanned the reports of his investigators.

The provinces where the families were largest are the Venetian counties of Treviso, Udine, Padua and Venice. Treviso tops the list with 1,024 families rejoicing in more than ten children while Milan, having a far greater population, comes second with 865.

COUPLE END LIVES IN CAPITOL HOTEL

WASHINGTON, Sept. 10.—The bodies of Mr. and Mrs. Frederick H. Doyle, of Brooklyn, who killed themselves in a local hotel with poison were being sent today to relatives in Providence, R. I. The mystery surrounding the couple was maintained when undertakers declined information as to the Providence relatives.

TO FIX BLAME

EAST LIVERPOOL, O., Sept. 10.—Responsibility of the wreck Wednesday of an interurban car on the East Liverpool, Steubenville and Beaver Valley traction line will be fixed at a hearing in Steubenville next Tuesday, it was announced here. The accident which caused the death of one man and injured eighteen persons occurred north of Steubenville when the interurban car crashed into a standing chemical tank.

Dr. W. S. Scarborough, Ex-President Of Wilberforce University Succumbs

DR. W. S. SCARBOROUGH

LEADING EDUCATOR VICTIM OF ILLNESS OF YEAR'S DURATION

Funeral Sunday at 1:30
P. M.—Body Will Lie
In State Sunday

Dr. William Sanders Scarborough, noted scholar and educator, and ex-president of Wilberforce University, died at his home at Wilberforce, at 7:30 o'clock Thursday night, after an illness of about one year, in the latter part of which he rapidly declined.

For forty-three years he was connected with Wilberforce University, from 1877 to 1920, and was its president twelve years (1905-1920), giving it a lifetime of faithful self-sacrificing service.

Funeral services will be held Sunday afternoon at 1:30 at Gallopway Auditorium, Wilberforce University. The remains will be removed to the auditorium Sunday morning, with a military escort, to lie in state.

Dr. H. H. Summers, Paine Theological Seminary and pastor of Trinity A. M. E. Church, will have charge of the services, assisted by Dean George F. Woodson, of the seminary. Miss Hallie Q. Brown and William A. Anderson will take part in the services. Interment will be made in Tarbox Cemetery, near Wilberforce.

He was born in Macon, Ga., February 16, 1852, and was the only surviving child of Jeremiah and Frances Scarborough.

He received his early education in Lewis High School of Macon and spent two years at Atlanta University preparing for Yale, but entered Oberlin College, Oberlin, Ohio, instead, graduating with the degree of A. B. in 1875. Later he received from Oberlin the degree of A. M. and he was later honored by various colleges with the degree of Ph. D., and L. L. D. He spent part of the year following graduation in special study of the Semitic languages and Hellenistic Greek.

In 1877 he was elected head of the Classical Department in Wilberforce University. In 1881 he published through A. S. Barnes and Co. a Greek text book—"First Lessons in Greek"—the first and only Greek book ever written by a Negro. This book was widely used by both white and colored schools of the country, especially in the North. He also wrote a treatise entitled, "The Birds of Aristophanes—a Theory of Interpretation"—aside from numerous tracts and pamphlets, covering a variety of subjects, classical, archaeological, sociological and racial.

He wrote many papers for various societies to which he belonged, especially the Philological Society. In 1891 he was transferred to the chair of Hellenistic Greek in Payne Theological Seminary of Wilberforce University, which chair he filled six years. In 1897 he was again elected professor of Latin and Greek in the University and was made vice-president. In 1908 he was elected president of Wilberforce University.

IS FRUIT HANGING OVER ROAD PUBLIC?

STEUBENVILLE, O., Sept. 10.—A peach picker wants the courts here to decide if fruit laden boughs extending over a public highway are not public property. John Hatfield, 30, picked some fruit while driving past the farm of Fred Wilt, 60. Wilt peppered Hatfield with buck shot on the theory the latter was stealing. Now Hatfield has charged Wilt with shooting to kill, claiming he was not trespassing when he picked the fruit.

ARREST SUSPECT IN PAY ROLL ROBBERY

CLEVELAND, O., Sept. 10.—A suspect in the $8400 Jaitte paper Co. pay roll robbery was held by police here today.

The suspect was arrested at his home here at 4:30 a. m., on a private tip received at headquarters. Since the four bandits who held up Charles Jaitte, president of the paper company and Julius K. Kreckel, treasurer, wore masks, identification will be difficult. The hold up occurred yesterday near Northfield.

WASHINGTON, Sept. 10.—America has one billionaire, several hundred multimillionaires and at least 11,000 ordinary millionaires, according to Joseph McCoy, actuary of the U. S. treasury.

The wealthiest man in the country resides in New York City, McCoy told the United Press in an interview today. The next richest man lives in Detroit while the third wealthiest person lives "either in Detroit or Chicago."

McCoy said he could not officially name the wealthiest persons, but it was understood that the billionaire is John D. Rockefeller, with Henry Ford a close second. Edsel Ford vies with the unnamed Chicagoan for third place.

"The number of millionaires cannot longer be determined from income tax returns," McCoy said. "The latest returns show only seventy-four persons in this class, but that is because the tax is levied on income and not on actual wealth."

"The really rich men have portions of their money in jewels and other valuables that cannot be taxed as income. It is only the new rich that really are heavily taxed by this revenue collection."

"Millionaires are increasing every year. Before the war there were only about 4,500 persons with wealth in excess of $1,000,000."

McCoy said millionaires do not invest their money in tax exempt securities because the interest rate on the investment is too low. They put their cash in securities bearing high rates of interest and then can afford to pay the taxes, he said.

VICTIM OF BANDITS WAS GREENE COUNTY NATIVE; IS BURIED

Chester Custenbolder,
Killed in Gary, Ind.,
Lived at Mt. Zion

Chester Custenbolder, 51, killed by bandits in a raid on a pool room and cigar store where he was employed as a clerk in Gary, Ind., last Thursday night, was a former Greene County man and was born and reared in the Mt. Zion neighborhood in Beaver Creek Twp.

His funeral was held in Dayton Sunday afternoon at the home of his niece, Mrs. Paul Myers, and interment took place in Mt. Zion Cemetery. Two friends of the murdered man accompanied the body to Greene County. W. F. Custenbolder, Bellbrook, is a brother of the bandit's victim and Mrs. Ida Archer of Shilo, near Dayton, is a sister. Mr. Custenbolder was the youngest son of the late Mr. and Mrs. Jacob Custenbolder of near Mt. Zion. He left Greene County about fifteen years ago and had been in Gary since that time.

Details of the hold-up in which Mr. Custenbolder lost his life were carried in news dispatches. Custenbolder who was a clerk in the cigar store, had just stepped into the pool room connected with the store, when the bandit entered. Thinking he was joking when he pointed a gun at him and ordered him to hold up his hands, Custenbolder pushed the gun aside and said "get out of here with that thing." When the bandit persisted, Custenbolder grappled with him and was shot through the heart. In making his escape the bandit shot and dangerously wounded a policeman and was shot and killed by the officer.

RECEIVE BIDS

MARION, O., Sept. 10.—Bids have been received for the construction of the $800,000 memorial monument to President Warren G. Harding at the headquarters of the Harding Memorial Association here. Contracts will be let in Washington, October 4 by trustees of the association.

WASHINGTON, Sept. 10.—America has one billionaire, several hundred multimillionaires and at least 11,000 ordinary millionaires, according to Joseph McCoy, actuary of the U. S. treasury.

The wealthiest man in the country resides in New York City, McCoy told the United Press in an interview today. The next richest man lives in Detroit while the third wealthiest person lives "either in Detroit or Chicago."

GERMANY WELCOMED TO LEAGUE WITH CHEERS

Briand and Stresmann Speak On Peace—Handshaking Tour Led Past Germans By Chamberlain

GENEVA, Sept. 10.—Germany was welcomed into the league of nations today by her late enemy, France, and at the conclusion of the speech making and hand shaking, Sir George Foster, the Canadian delegate to the league, arose and led the enthusiastic statesmen and spectators in three cheers.

The old enemies pledged themselves to peace.

It was the first time such indignified but expressive means ever had been adopted by the assembly to express approval.

Foreign Minister Stresmann, of Germany and Foreign Minister Briand of France, spoke from the rostrum after President Nitti of the assembly had briefly expressed the league's pleasure at receiving Germany. Then Sir Austen Chamberlain, the British foreign secretary, led the principal delegation in a hand shaking procession past the German seats, whereupon Sir George rose to cheer.

Stresmann and Briand talked of peace.

"The league must achieve universality embracing all nations on a basis of equality," said Stresmann. "Germany is determined to adopt this as the basis of her policy. We belong to peoples seeking to emerge to the light from darkness. May the league's work be based on the ideals of peace, freedom and unity to which we pledge earnest devotion."

Briand pictured the end of war and the permanence of peace.

"No more war, no more suffering hereafter with our international differences," said Briand. "We will go before the courts like private citizens. France has no more further need of heroic demonstrations than has Germany, and in the future we will work together like brothers. I do not mean to say that all differences and difficulties have been settled, but that hereafter we will settle them peacefully."

Witnesses Who Kept Secret Four Years Break
Down After Hours Of Questioning—Support
"Pig Woman's" Story

SOMERVILLE, N. J., Sept. 10.—Ralph V. Gorsline has admitted he was on the Phillips farm and heard shots and screams the night the Rev. Edward W. Hall and Mrs. Eleanor Mills were murdered four years ago.

Inspector John W. Underwood, of the Jersey City police, announced today that Gorsline had made a complete statement after having been questioned almost steadily for more than twenty-four hours.

The secret he had kept for four years was first revealed by Miss Catherine Rastall, who, it was reported, admitted she was with Gorsline in De Russy's lane on the night of the murder.

Miss Rastall was questioned all yesterday afternoon and last night. Early today she was permitted to leave the state police headquarters here, where the questioning took place and returned to her home in New Brunswick.

Gorsline, however, was not permitted to sleep. All through the night the steady questioning continued. Long after daybreak, Gorsline finally was permitted to go.

Gorsline, who was a vestryman in the Church of St. John the Divine, New Brunswick, of which Hall was pastor, has denied for four years that he knew anything of the murder.

Detective Underwood announced today that Gorsline had admitted that on the night of the murders he had driven Miss Rastall to De Russy's lane. He said he had backed his car into the lane to turn around when he heard one shot, then the scream of a woman, then three more shots. He said he did not stop to investigate, fearing his presence in the lane would be disclosed, but drove back to New Brunswick.

Miss Rastall admitted to the detectives, who questioned her from early yesterday afternoon until 1:30 this morning that she was in Gorsline's car with him in the lane, within 300 feet of the crab apple tree under which the pastor and choir singer were found murdered. She said they heard shots, screams and voices.

Gorsline partly confirmed the story told by Mrs. Jane Gibson, the "pig woman," who said she had seen the murder and had recognized Mrs. Frances Stevens Hall, wife of the pastor; her eccentric brother, Willie Stevens, and their cousin, Henry De LaBruyere Carpenter. All three are held on murder charges. Gorsline said of Mrs. Gibson's story:

"I know her statement regarding mumbled voices, shots, screams, and moaning. They coincide with what I saw and heard while I was present in De Russy's lane."

Gorsline said he and Miss Rastall saw a car coming out of the lane after the shooting but did not recognize the occupants. They agreed not to mention anything about the shooting.

NEW YORK, Sept. 10.—Richard E. Merten, star witness in the prosecution of Harry M. Daugherty and Thomas W. Miller, for conspiracy to defraud the government, today told the details of his agreement under which he is alleged to have recovered $7,000,000 in assets of the American Metals Co., seized by the government from German owners during the war.

The agreement he said was made either with the late John T. King, Republican political leader, or the late Jesse Smith, confidant of former Attorney General Daugherty.

The agreement was made in July 1921 and was:

"That he would pay immediately $500,000 'retainer fee' to King or Smith."

"That he would pay five per cent of the value of the property recovered by his claims were allowed by the alien property custodian's office before August 15, 1921, or two and a half per cent if the claims were paid after that date."

Hayes was wounded by shotgun fire discharged from an automobile while pursued by his machine after he failed to obey a command to halt.

"That gambling war stuff is all the bunk," Hayes, who is recovering in a local hospital, said today. "It was a plain stick up job and I was shot because I would not stop my car."

TOLEDO, O., Sept. 10.—Jimmy Hayes, Toledo's wealthy sports promoter, today reiterated that he did not believe the report that "gangsters" were responsible for the attack upon him early yesterday.

Hayes was wounded by shotgun fire discharged from an automobile while pursued by his machine after he failed to obey a command to halt.

"That gambling war stuff is all the bunk," Hayes, who is recovering in a local hospital, said today. "It was a plain stick up job and I was shot because I would not stop my car."

COMPLETES SWIM IN ELEVEN HOURS TO SET NEW SPEED RECORD

Pleased To Defeat German—Kemmerich Swims Baltic

ST. MARGARETS BAY, England, Sept. 10.—Georges Michel, veteran French swimmer, broke the world's record for swimming the English channel here early today when he completed the crossing in eleven hours and six minutes.

"Ja Battu L'Allemand," (I've beaten the German) were Michel's first words as he staggered up the deserted beach.

Having left Cape Gris Nez at 8:32 last night, Michel splashed ashore here at 7:38 a. m., conquering the channel within eight minutes of the goal he set for himself.

With a broad grin covering his face, the new world's champion of the newly popular sport, went immediately to "The Green Man," a tavern, and called for whiskey.

Michel lowered the record set August 30 by Ernst Vierkotter, a German, who swam the channel in twelve hours and forty two minutes. Michel had hoped to arrive here by 7:30.

"If I don't arrive on the English coast by 7:30 Friday morning, it will be a great shock to me," he told the United Press before leaving Cape Gris Nez. He was eight minutes late.

He washed off the heavy coat of grease that covered his body in the bath room at The Green Man, ate a hearty breakfast and set out by automobile for Folkestone, to register witnesses and certifications of his time at the French consulate.

En route to Folkestone, Michel told his own story of the swim, declaring that champagne helped him.

"My official time was eleven hours and five minutes," he said. "I was ill twice. About 1 a. m. I became very sick. Then at 3 a. m. I got cramps and felt terribly cold. The sea was calm except the last two hours."

"Champagne helped me. I took two drinks."

"I also ate two lumps of sugar soaked in cognac and coffee. I ate nothing else. I feel fine now. I'm glad I took the record for France."

"I was in the artillery during the war, perhaps opposite Vierkotter. I am going to the consulate because I have no passport. I am like a prisoner of war," he added laughingly.

Michel is about 45 years old. He is former French distance champion. Most of his swimming has been done in the Seine, though he often has attacked the channel.

He trained Bill Burgess before Burgess swam the channel in 1911. Michel is unmarried. He is a huge, broad shouldered powerful man.

Five witnesses, including a French official, Duval, and an Englishman named Billings of Bologne, accompanied Michel on his dash aboard a tug. Duval made the trip in an official capacity to insure Michel's desire that his time could not be questioned.

But dispositions were taken from a few persons on shore at the landing time and these registered at the consulate.

Michel was a bit shaky when he first landed but the liquor stimulated him and he was in fine spirits on the trip to Folkestone.

The Frenchman rounded out his spurt with a game fight against rough seas. A southeast wind had roughened the water.

Michel wore a blue bathing suit this time to avoid recurrence of an embarrassing incident which he felt him recently at Cape Gris Nez. When he had completed a long practice swim, the mayor came down to the beach to honor him and Michel stepped out naked.

COPENHAGEN, Sept. 10.—Otto Kemmerich, a German swimmer across the Baltic Sea, a distance of twenty-five kilometers, today in eleven hours, winning the 1,000 kroner prize posted by Politiken, a Danish newspaper.

In a recent attempt to swim the English channel, Kemmerich, who trains on beer and smokes several large cigars daily, abandoned the water after three hours and fifty minutes. He was about five miles off the coast of Cape Gris Nez when he was struck in the chest by a heavy object, which he believes was a shark, forcing abandonment of the attempt.

ARSENAL, SCENE OF
DISASTER IN CIVIL WAR, WILL BE SOLD

PITTSBURGH, Sept. 10.—Allegheny Arsenal, center of Pittsburgh's war activities since 1814, today was placed on the auction block.

The historic landmark viewed by all important personages who have visited Pittsburgh since the days of Lafayette, will go to the highest bidder, its usefulness having disappeared.

The Old Pike of Masonry was never the scene of battle action but was the site of one of the disasters of the civil war. Seventy-four children, seventy of them girls, were killed, there when engaged in making cartridges for use by the union army. Several buildings in the Arsenal were demolished by the terrific explosion, but were soon rebuilt.

When the United States entered the World War in 1917 and Pittsburgh became one of the centers of munition manufacturing the Arsenal was utilized as a warehouse. The war ended, the Arsenal was leased for commercial purposes, and it will now be sold outright.

The Old Arsenal was built at a cost of $300,000. It was surmounted by a watch tower, 120 feet high.

WANT TO GET QUART
BILLION DOLLARS?

FREMONT, Ohio, Sept. 9.—"Do you want to make a quart billion dollars clear profit inside thirty-three years?"

That is the beginning of a letter received by Mayor Connors of

Health Hints
by the
Father of Physical Culture

Abdominal pains create the tendency to contract the abdominal muscles. A baby always draws up its legs when suffering from abdominal pains. You should induce muscular relaxation at once. If a small child, place the right hand over the left hand flat upon the abdomen, rotate slowly with slight pressure in a circular motion from the right side downward to the left side, and continue for some time until the child becomes quiet. A warm enema is indicated no matter how small the baby.

Lying upon the stomach sometimes eases the pain. This position is the natural one and the pressure is beneficial. In adults whether the pains are menstrual or intestinal, the abdominal walls must be vigorously expanded by self-applied muscular rotary movements from right to left, or in the direction of the hands of a clock, exerting a strong downward pressure towards the rectum. These movements are best taken lying down with the knees drawn up. The rotations should be slow, deep, rhythmic. Resisting pressure, not so great as to cause pain, is an aid. This self-applied abdominal internal massage should, of course, be supplemental to hot enemas, stimulative hot drinks and hot abdominal applications.

In chronic abdominal pains the treatment will depend much upon the location and nature of the pains. As a rule the general regimen about to be described can be depended upon to bring relief no matter where the pain may be located, as the treatment of constitutional difficulties of this kind depends largely upon improving the quality of the blood. Complete abstinence from all nourishment with the exception that the patient is particularly requested to drink large quantities of water. By large quantities I mean on an average of from half a pint to a pint every hour during the day. This is to be continued for two days, after which he is to fast for three days not taking liquids or solids and not even water except when he has a very definite desire for it. If after following this fasting regimen for three days one feels that he can conveniently continue to fast for a longer period it would be materially to his advantage.

PLANS FOR YEAR LAID BY FEDERATION

Plans to again fill the role of "big sister" to the Opportunity School were made by Federated Parent-Teacher Association, when cabinet members met at the home of Mrs. S. M. McKay, W. Church St., Thursday afternoon.

Cabinet members decided to have the annual one-day "drive" for funds for the school, September 23, when Xenia citizens will be asked to help support the school for backward children.

The State P. T. A. convention will be held at Marietta, O., October 6, 7 and 8. Mrs. McKay was chosen delegate with Mrs. E. P. Hamlin as alternate.

The president appointed each president of the various P. T. A. units in the city to act as a committee to assist with the sale of anti-tuberculosis seals this year.

The treasurer's report showed that the Federation spent $1,364.33 for child welfare in the City last year, with a balance of $110.

Officers of the Federation this year, 1926-27 are: Mrs. S. M. McKay, president; Mrs. E. P. Hamlin, vice president; Mrs. J. J. Stout, secretary; Mrs. Adolph Moser, treasurer. This cabinet consists of the officers of the four P. T. A. units of the city: Central High, Mrs. Charles Adair, president; McKinley School, Mrs. Earl Short, president; Orient Hill, Mrs. Odis Pramer, president; Spring Hill, Mrs. Lee Pudge, president.

Mrs. McKay is calling another meeting of the cabinet for next Thursday at 7:30.

BIRTHDAY PARTY ARRANGED TUESDAY
Mr. Owen Clemans was surrounded by friends and relatives who arranged a birthday surprise at his home, Tuesday evening.

Thirty-six guests were present. The evening was spent in a sociable way on refreshments of sandwiches, pickles and cake served.

Those present were: Mr. and Mrs. W. E. Clemans and son Lester; Mr. and Mrs. Ed Shaffer; Mr. and Mrs. Walter Jones and family; Mr. and Mrs. J. J. Thomas, Mr. and Mrs. Frank Woolary, Mr. and Mrs. Fred Woolary, Mr. and Mrs. Elmer Woolary and family, Mr. and Mrs. Jacob Heinz, and family; Mr. and Mrs. William Brown and family; Mr. and Mrs. Samuel Adams and family; Mr. and Mrs. Owen Clemans and family.

HOME CLUB HOLDS FIRST MEETING
The Home Club held the first meeting of the Fall at the home of Mrs. Albert Bickett, near Xenia, Wednesday. Topic of the program was "Vacation Trips," and was interestingly handled by Mrs. Gowdy Williamson and Mrs. E. S. Foust.

The hostess served dainty refreshments and the members enjoyed a social hour. Mrs. R. E. Bryson is president of the club this year.

The only guest from a distance at the meeting was Mrs. John Meekensson, Biggsville, Ill., sister of Miss Lillie Spencer.

FORMER XENIAN TO BE MARRIED SOON
Mr. David Purdom, son of Mr. and Mrs. C. D. Purdom, N. Galloway St., located in Toledo, will be married to Miss Violet Engle, Toledo, in that city, next Saturday.

The marriage will be quietly solemnized and Mr. and Mrs. Purdom will leave immediately for the East, to spend their honeymoon.

Mr. Purdom is connected with the West Toledo Overland Co., as bookkeeper.

LEGION AUXILIARY MEMBERS ENTERTAINED
Mrs. Walter Dean entertained members of the American Legion Auxiliary at her home on W. Market St., Thursday evening, with a sewing party.

A dainty refreshment course of cake and ice cream was served by the hostess. A social time was enjoyed.

B. P. W. CLUB MEETS
First meeting of the Xenia Business and Professional Women's Club for the new year, will be held next Thursday evening at the Knights of Pythias Hall. Dinner will be served at 5:45 o'clock, followed by a program.

Dr. W. B. Caldwell at the age of 63

Most men and women past fifty must give to the bowels some occasional help, else they suffer from constipation. One might as well refuse to aid weak eyes with glasses as to neglect a gentle aid to weak bowels.

Is your present laxative, in whatever form, promoting natural bowel "regularity"—or must you purge and "physic" every day or two to avoid sick headache, dizziness, biliousness, colds or sour, gassy stomach?

Dr. Caldwell's Syrup Pepsin helps to establish natural, regular bowel movement even for those chronically constipated. It never gripes, sickens or upsets the system. Besides, it is absolutely harmless and pleasant to take.

Buy a large 60-cent bottle at any store that sells medicine or write "Syrup Pepsin," Monticello, Illinois, for a FREE SAMPLE BOTTLE and just see for yourself.

THE NEGRO ADVANCES

Slowly, but surely, the members of the negro race are advancing in ability and in contribution to the welfare of the nation. With education and better economic surroundings for each succeeding generation, they come to take a recognized place in the economic structure.

A Christian church publication recently gave a series of unusual facts about individuals of the race. These were compiled by Carter Goodwin Woodson, who received the Springfield medal recently for "ten years' services in collecting and publishing records of the negro in America." Woodson, a son of ex-slaves, is a graduate of the universities of Harvard and Chicago.

Some of the facts which are given are rarely known and are worth reproducing:

Several negroes were included among the "minute-men" of the Revolutionary War.

Crispus Attucks, negro, was one of the first four soldiers to shed blood in behalf of U. S. liberty.

A considerable number of negroes owned slaves before the Civil War.

The University of Heidelberg conferred the degree of Doctor of Divinity upon J. W. C. Pennington, Maryland ex-slave.

Josiah Henson, prototype of Uncle Tom of Uncle Tom's Cabin, was received by Queen Victoria.

Henry O. Tanner, with the white artist, Sargent, represents the best America has produced in painting.

The 370th (8th Illinois) colored regiment (officered by negroes) received more citations and croix de guerre than any other American regiment in France.

THE FIREPLACE

Those who are supplied with fireplaces in their homes feel no resentment as the chilly evenings of the early fall arrive, with their promise of colder evenings and the winter not far away. The chill of fall can be welcomed because it provides good reason for a blaze in the fireplace with the joy and good cheer possible as the fire crackles and develops, the ashes drop and the fire burns itself out.

The family gathers about the fire, as the lure is strong and there is promise of a happy hour. It is a proper place to visit, to read, or smoke, to relax and dream. The gloom of the fireplace is cheerful, companionable and inviting. One may watch the curling smoke, the jets of flame, the ruddy glow and find ever a new picture always interesting.

Fireplaces are domestic, belong in the home where a family is found. The selfish man and the miser might refuse them, certainly could not hope to see their charm, glimpse the picture and feel the spell. The hour of peace, kindly contemplation and retrospection comes as the evening wears away and the fire burns low, the hour with its soothing and sweetening effect on life. Those hours come only in the home. They are for the generous, the kindly, the helpful to know and enjoy.

THE REFORMING INSTINCT

Love may be blind, but it is not stone blind. Perhaps it is near-sighted or suffers from cataracts, but see it does in its strange way.

There is the case in point of the two young things who get married. Though the world assumes they believe one another perfect, the truth is each sees in the other certain needed improvements and is secretly resolved to effect the reform.

Take the man. He promises himself that after the honeymoon is over and they settle down to the serious business of married life he will cure his darling wife of that silly giggle or of chewing gum with too great show of enterprise.

And the wife. She is laying her plans long before the wedding to cure the most perfect and yet imperfect man of those little vices which annoy her but about which she is loath to annoy him until the knot is safely tied and sealed.

Brides and bridegrooms love "as is" but they have their fingers crossed. They take each other for better, or for worse, with reservations which are effective when they are "at home to their friends."

This retining and reforming process may run smoothly if both parties to the contract possess tact and diplomacy and exercise them in bringing about those little "much to-be-desired modifications." If one or both bluntly criticizes the other they generally "fight it out on this line if it takes all summer."

Wouldn't matrimony be a dull and monotonous experience if one could find a mate made to order! The reforming or missionary instinct is common to all men, and matrimony affords it an ideal medium of expression.

Just Folks

BY EDGAR A. GUEST

PRAISE

This shall be said at the last:
"Bill was a workman true
Give him a job to do,
Was it hard, was it slow or fast
He did it the best he knew
He was square, he was brave, he was kind
And he left a good name behind."

Now whether the man be rich
Or a laborer out in the sun
When the battle of life is done
It doesn't much matter which
To this must our praises run:
"He was fair, he was true, he was kind
And he left a good name behind."

Oh, there is such a thing as fame
Such a thing as high fortune,
too;

But they fall to the very few
And man gathers his praise or blame
From the deeds he is known to do.

All we ask at the last was he kind?
Did he leave a good name behind?

So keep watch on your name, my lad,
And the task that is yours to do,
They are all that can speak for you.

If you've lived to the light you've had,
They shall say when the struggle's through:
"He was fair, he was brave he was kind,

ON

Greene County History

GEN. WHITEMAN'S INFLUENCE

In connection with the designation of the original boundaries of Greene County, after the line between Greene and Clark Counties was surveyed and established, one loyal and influential resident of Greene County was not at all satisfied with the arrangement.

This citizen was General Benjamin Whiteman. That part of the boundary line extending west to the line between townships four and five in the eighth range, ran somewhat to the south of the general's house which was situated on the north side of the Little Miami River, a short distance east of the present Clifton village, thus making him a resident of Clark County.

He was at that time, and had been since its organization, a prominent man in Greene County, as he had served as one of the first three associate judges of the first Common Pleas Court that had established the county government and laid it off into townships.

Since he was identified with the public interests of the county he wished to remain a resident of it.

Accordingly he used his influence in the halls of the legislature which passed a bill January 25, 1819, so changing the boundary line between Greene and Clark Counties that it ran north of the general's residence, enabling him to remain a resident of this county.

Today's Talk

DULL, DARK DAYS

I have recently experienced a week or more of dark, dull days. No sunshine. Just rain, rain, rain. Now rain is not depressing if it is sprinkled with sunshine. But when day after day rolls along, full of darkness and rain, any one of us is apt to feel just a little gloomy, and not rise to our best. We get lonesome. We want interesting and bright folks about us and we crave companionship.

It is at such times that the cheerful person's premium rises high. For there are always those who are strong and to whom discouragement and "dull, dark days" do not come to upset and disturb. We can appraise the fine personality best when the clouds are heavy in the sky.

Just as we can best appreciate the friend who is strong and unmoved when trouble comes. The fact is that we do not give enough credit to those who mean the most to us. We are apt to discount them until we find ourselves in the fog. Then we see their light and move their way. The dull, dark days bring us all closer together. And they help us to understand human nature better and to live braver when the sun comes out.

From every emergency comes good. The wise mind is back-grounded with a full experience of the gifts of life—and many of these gifts have been bitter ones. But all were taken in good heart—for what each was worth.

And, after all, we gain happiness in proportion to our ability to rightly appraise the values in this life.

If we shy at trouble and try to get out of solving problems when they come to us, we are liable to experience depression and discouragement.

The dull, dark days come to us as teachers. Just bear in mind that the sun still shines right above those clouds—as though indifferent to clouds.

In the troubled heart there may be always hidden the garden of love, sweetness of spirit, and "the red badge of courage."

By Jack O'Donnell

Beppo dug for fish heads in the garbage cans along Tenth Avenue. Whelped in the cellar of a fish market in Hell's Kitchen, he was well satisfied to live the life of a small woolly dog in the tender loins. It was pretty exciting. There was the Maltese cat in the delicatessen shop to annoy; and two or three days a week the cans contained interesting morsels—if a pup dug hard enough.

Beppo's mother was a poodle—French, but not very. Beppo's father was not a poodle—that's about all one could say for him. Beppo resembled both parents.

He was about as onery looking as any young dog could be, even on Tenth Avenue. He could catch mice, beg in one-arm joints for bits of meat, snarl at cats without getting too close, and swipe sausages from open counters. In fact, it looked as though Beppo would live and die on Tenth Avenue, just as small woolly dogs were intended to do.

And then one day Mike, the fish man, had an idea. Soap and water, according to Mike's experience, could work profound changes on small woolly dogs. Mike and Beppo went into executive session at the family wash tub, and there emerged shortly the fluffiest little bundle of pink and white dog that ever cast despairing eyes at a cake of castle soap.

"Now," said Mike. "Half an hour later, if you had been (as I was) on the corner

The Theatre

The real sirens of the screen are worse than they're painted! The Pola Negris, the Nita Naldis, the Lya de Puttis and the Dagmar Godowskys are generally accepted as the real "wicked women." But the more quiet types make their share of conquests.

Directors must beg Lillian Gish to be kissed. Sex appeal is not in her line. But what vamp can match the list of her conquests? Lois Wilson follows that line of least resistance, "if I can't be a sweetheart I'll be a sister to you," and gets em. Constance Talmadge is the "good sport" type and appeals to manly hearts.

Agnes Smith in "Photoplay," declares that if national vamps were taken, the Lillian Gishes, Lois Wilsons, Irene Riches and other varieties of sweet womanhood would come out on top, as the real vamps. At an early age, Lillian learned that Art is Imagination. And it happens also that Sex Appeal is much the same thing. And Lillian is getting $8,000 a week holding on to her sweet femininity after she wrecked the fortunes of D. W. Griffith and Charles Duell, who made her what she is today, and incidentally Duell's heart, it is said.

And Lois Wilson—she's just a good friend to the men she knows. That's her fatal quality. They say Lois would marry Richard Dix tomorrow, but Dix looks on her just as a good friend. A young millionaire of one of the most respected families in America is willing to marry Lois any day she says. But Lois says she's just a friend. Take Pola Negri for instance—she's What Men Really Want in the movies, but in real life her romances last about three months. Remember Charlie and Rudy? Constance Talmadge made a big dent in Dick Barthelmess' heart, and her romance with Irving Berlin was the talk of Broadway for some time. She was his only love for years—until he met Ellen Mackay and her fortune. When Constance married Capt. Alastair Mackintosh, "Buster Collier vanished for weeks." This is just a few of the hidden vamps of Hollywood, but they really are legion.

When Raquel Meller left Hollywood she faithfully promised Charlie Chaplin that she would return and play "Josephine" to his "Napoleon." Neither Charlie nor Raquel will take any salary during the making of the picture. But Charlie and Sonorita will share in the profits of the film. If there are no profits, it will be written off as a glorious experiment and the satisfaction of a long desire of Charlie's. Meller was none too successful in French films.

She Bared Her Soul!

To the man whose kindly tolerance and sympathy have put thousands back on the road to happiness

AND she was one of hundreds who have done the same—told secrets she would not tell her mother—or perhaps her husband—but in the confession of the Judge's chambers she revealed all. Her story and those of scores of others—men as well as women—are now being retold for society's good in

"The Moral Revolt" by Judge Ben B. Lindsey
Judge of the Family Court of Denver

This is the most candid and startling series of articles ever published in any magazine. Reasoning from the stories of real life told him in court day after day, Judge Lindsey has reached certain conclusions, and now he boldly asks: "Is a new code of sex morals being created?" It is a startling question—but a question that has heretofore existed unasked in the minds of all intelligent men and women; and it is no more startling than the evidence that Judge Lindsey offers in his great series of articles entitled "The Moral Revolt."

When you have read the first of the Judge's articles and considered it, turn a few pages of the same magazine and read the first article in another astonishing series in which the internationally famous beauty and social leader—

Mrs. Philip Lydig Reveals Secrets of New York Society

ALMOST since girlhood, beautiful Mrs. Philip Lydig has been an unquestioned leader of New York's ultra-smart society. Now for the first time Mrs. Lydig proceeds to turn the spotlight on that society—telling in great detail why she finds it futile, false and corrupt. The statements she makes will astonish you—story after story of tragedies heretofore never publicly disclosed. If chronicles of the real lives of the prominently fashionable—heretofore known only to those on the inside of that group—are of interest to you, then you must read Mrs. Lydig's revealing article, "Marriage Without Love."

Humbled Reds Meet Pittsburgh Nine

While the Cardinals were enraging the lowly Beans Friday with every chance of increasing their lead, the Reds were taking on the Pittsburgh Pirate at Pittsburgh in another double header.

Wednesday the Pirates smacked the Reds for a double loss, thereby seriously impairing the pennant chances of the Hendricksmen and a double redemption on the part of the Reds now would put them back in the race where they were before going East.

The Reds gained ever so slightly and the Cards fared well Thursday while both were idle, because the Chicago Cubs divided a double header with the Pirates. Percy Jones lost a pitcher's duel to Joe Bush in the initial contest while Kaufman was complete master of the Bucs while his mates slaughtered Yde, Koupol and Mahaffey in the second contest. The scores were 2 to 1 and 10 to 1.

New York and Brooklyn were idle Friday while the Cardinals played Boston, Chicago met Philadelphia and the Reds met the Pirates. If Boston is as formidable against the Cards as it was against the Reds on their last Eastern invasion, there is hope for the second-placers.

The Reds on August 11 were farther from the top than they are now and apparently in a serious slump that was about to remove them bodily from the race. On that date however, they went out and manufactured the 1926 run record off Philadelphia and then won ten straight to put them back in the running. While they are badly battered now, they still have a chance for a fast finish and the pennant which is better than no chance at all.

BOY SCOUTS CLAIM SOFT BALL TITLE AFTER VICTORY THURSDAY

Boy Scouts claimed the city soft ball championship Friday after defeating the Junior Business Men's Club 12 to 11 at Cox Memorial Athletic Field Thursday afternoon in a six inning game.

A sixth inning rally, in which the Scouts came from behind to overcome a three run lead and obtain the extra winning marker, featured the championship clash. While business men hope to redeem themselves in a future game, Scouts believe the title is decided and no further games are necessary.

"Bunny" Purdom pitched for the business men, with Eavey catching, and his slants were no puzzle to the Scouts, who smashed the agate with a will to all corners of the lot. Purdom remained in the box, however, and served the opponents delectable shoots which they massacred with abandon. In the meantime, Stout, who relieved Hurley in the box for the Scouts, pitched invincibly, striking out the majority of the enemy that faced him.

Crawford umpired the contest with considerable eclat.

—it's clear enough what smokers want!

Real delicacy of aroma, but without loss of natural tobacco taste and character

THAT'S what smokers want—and what's more, they know just where to get it.

Witness Chesterfield's remarkable record; for four years' running, America's fastest-growing cigarette.

Chesterfield offers "natural tobacco taste" at its mild and mellow best, just the natural leaf sweetness of fine tobaccos put together right—and "judged by results," that's just what smokers want.

"Not Possible To Classify"

By Mack Sauer

COLUMBUS—A few jottings of the day by Samuel Pepys, Jr.—The fire engines and trolleys kept up such a mighty clanging that I slept little, tossing about restlessly. Up at daybreak and to the state house yard to join the farmers feeding the squirrels.

Bought a pen for my wife's anniversary present, which I intend to use for myself.

Great sport standing on the street corners watching the farmers paying no heed to the traffic lights, and saw one woman get run down, but not hurt. But a delight to me is to see the beauties go by when the breeze is blowing which it often does here.

Met "Chob" Sisson, Gov. Donahay's special investigator, with whom I chummed in my boyhood, and made plans to see him ere long and I mean to tell him Xenia is strong for Myers Y. Cooper. Heard a tale about a fellow saying he was in prison because of the unlucky number 13, meaning twelve jurors and one judge. Came a chance to see three men electrocuted in the penitentiary, but I frightened that I might faint.

In the late evening to a movie where two flappers jabbered so much that I up and told them to talk louder, as I could only hear half they were saying above the music. And so late to my room and to bed with prayers.

YOUR FACE SOUNDS FAMILIAR MAY SOON BE COMMON REMARK

LONDON, Sept. 10.—"I knew it was you by the sound of your face" may soon become a common salutation. Already radio listeners all over England know the sound of Captain Hutchinson's face. It is a low droning sound, like a far-away airplane.

Captain Hutchinson has been broadcasting his face on a 200 meter wave-length for several weeks, experimenting in the new science of "television," sending motion pictures by radio broadcast.

His face registers in ordinary receiving sets only as a continuous hum, but when the "television" apparatus is hooked in, his face is shown on a screen so that the hearer of his words can tell, while he listens, whether the Captain is smiling or serious.

The British Government has just issued the first two "television" licenses on record, one for the London office of the company, Television Ltd., the other for the company's experimental shop at Green Gables, Harrow.

for Philadelphia, where she will join Dr. Patterson, who has been spending the last week there in attendance at the celebration of the fiftieth anniversary of the founding of the American Chemical Society. Next week Dr. and Mrs. Patterson will go to Washington, D. C., where Dr. Patterson will attend the meeting of the International Society of Pure and Applied Chemistry. The meeting will be the first the society has ever held in the United States and at the close of the meeting the delegates will enjoy a ten-day trip through the Eastern states to cities where the large industries are located. A large number of distinguished foreign delegates will be present. Dr. and Mrs. Patterson were in attendance at the last International Society meeting which was held last year in Bucharest.

POLICE FISH BOOZE FROM RAIN BARRELL

A convenient rain water barrel concealed for only a short time seven half pints of moonshine liquor after Mrs. Earl Cline, 12 Charles St., dropped a paper sack containing the booze into its depths at 2 o'clock, Friday morning, according to police.

While Patrolman George Robinson pursued her, the young woman fled around the home of the next door neighbor, and appeared in the front minus sack she had carried. She made her escape through the alleys, and the officer returned and fished the booze out of the rain barrel.

In the meantime, Patrolman Charles Thompson was holding the woman's husband at the front of the house. He was locked up on a bootlegging charge. An additional half pint of liquor was found in the rear seat of the Cline car. Mr. and Mrs. Cline drove up in front of their home about the time the officers in the police car appeared. Mrs. Cline seized the sack, which police say contained the booze, and fled.

LARGE ENROLLMENT IS INDICATED FROM COUNTY AT CENTRAL

Indications point to an increased enrollment in Central High School this year, according to Principal Spencer Shank. This is accounted for by Principal Shank, by the fact that the percentage of pupils entering the local school from the rural districts is unusually high. "This may be offset, however," said the principal "by a decreased enrollment from the city."

Student grouping in home rooms by sex in the junior and senior high schools is an innovation to be adopted this year. Boys and girls will be placed separately in the home rooms. Students can be cared for better under this plan, Principal Shank says. By this method matters pertaining to boys alone and girls alone can be placed before the students to better advantage than when mixed groups were placed in the home rooms.

The second of the regular convocation assemblies marking the opening of the school year will be held in the auditorium of Central High School next Friday afternoon at 1:30 and will be open to the public with an invitation extended to all patrons to attend. The Rev. H. B. McElree, pastor of the Second Presbyterian Church, will be the speaker.

The opening schedule for the year indicates a tendency toward the commercial course upon the part of an unusually large number of pupils, Principal Shank says. The students enrolled for the agricultural course, and those who will take the college course, are about the same as last year. Virtually all the teachers on the high school faculty have returned from their vacations or summer work and are ready to begin their duties, Principal Shank says.

MRS. CATHERINE S. BREEN DIES HERE

Mrs. Catherine Sullivan Breen, 68, widow of Daniel Breen, and a resident of Xenia forty-three years, died at 10:20 Thursday night at her home 238 W. Second St. She had been bedfast for a year, and her condition became suddenly worse Tuesday night.

Mrs. Breen was born in Ireland, immigrating to this country when she was a young woman and had been a resident of Greene County for about seventy years. Her home was in Springfield before the family came to Xenia.

Mrs. Breen is survived by four daughters: Mrs. Mary Duffy of Springfield; Mrs. D. J. Hollen, camp, Xenia; Mrs. William F. Brennan, Dayton and Mrs. James Killeen, with whom she lived.

Funeral services will be held at 8:30 Monday morning at St. Bridget's Church. Interment in the Catholic Cemetery.

POWER COMPANY HAS NEW BILLING PLANS

Changes in the billing system by which there will be twenty-one different discount days to eliminate office congestion caused with only one discount day will be placed in effect next month by The Dayton Power and Light Co., at its Xenia office 37 S. Detroit St. E. H. Heathman, manager, announces.

Xenia has been divided into ten districts and the county into eleven districts and each district will be billed separately and the last discount day available on different days as a means of avoiding the monthly discount day congestion under the present system.

Electric billing machinery will also replace the hand billing method now employed in order to facilitate the billing work. The system, which is similar to that used in large Eastern cities, will become effective with the meter readings in September and is expected to add to convenience of patrons.

EAST END NEWS
MRS. JAMES HARRIS
Correspondent
TEL. 91-R

The annual reunion of the Pearson Cordell family was held Labor Day at Mr. Henry Ross' of Wilberforce.

A large and interesting group of relatives and friends were present from Wilberforce, Xenia, Jamestown, Dayton, Springfield, Columbus, Yellow Springs, Richmond, Ind., and Texas. At noon a bountiful dinner was served under a large tent, which added much to the pleasure and accommodation of all present.

A splendid program was listed to as follows: A welcome song to relatives which concluded with "The Prison Song" by Marie and Opal Nickens of Richmond, Ind.; greeting by little Carmi Bramlette, great grandson of the late T. J. Pearson of Jamestown; talk by Dr. H. R. Hawkins, of Xenia; Family History, Mrs. Lucy Pearson Bramlette of Xenia; Song: "America"; talk on army life by Serg. Albert Thomas of Xenia; closing remarks by Rev. Hutchison and Rev. Howe of Xenia. The next reunion will be at Bryan Park, Yellow Springs, O. Officers for next year are president, Mrs. Lucy Bramlette, secretary, Mrs. Julia Jones; treasurer, Mrs. Nellie Cordell; committee on arrangements, Messrs. Frank Hamilton, Jonah Evans, Geo. Hull, Chas. Cordell and Henry Ross.

Mrs. Maud Hood of Columbus, O., was the guest of Mrs. L. K. Bramlette for a few days this week leaving Thursday for Jamestown for a visit before returning to her home.

WARMER WEATHER KILLS THREAT AGAINST CORN BY MERCURY DROP

With the thermometer failing to about ten degrees above freezing point Thursday night, farmers with late corn began to worry for fear early frosts would catch and damage their crops.

Even a light frost would stop the growth of the corn before it had hardened sufficiently to begin curing, and the consequences would be a chaffy and immature crop. Weather reports Friday indicated a rising temperature, however, and fears of frost for the present were allayed.

Corn that was planted early throughout the county is beginning to cure, and silos are being filled, according to County Agent

J. R. Kimber. Husks are beginning to turn yellow on the early crop.

The late crop is still green, but is earing up nicely and if frosts hold off for about four weeks longer it will be in fine condition, according to Mr. Kimber.

Some corn in lowlands where the water stood during the heavy rains and other corn blown down by storms, was damaged by the rainy weather but generally Greene County corn escaped much damage from the storms, according to Mr. Kimber.

Oats and hay were the chief sufferers from the rainy weather. There was considerable loss on wheat in scattered places over the country, where the crop could not be threshed and was caught in the fields by the rainy weather. A great deal of oats met the same fate and the shocks in the wet fields began sprouting.

PHYSICIANS FIGURE IN TWO ACCIDENTS

Two Xenia physicians figured in motor accidents the past week. Dr. Frank M. Chambliss, Messenger Building, had his coupe badly damaged when the automobile was struck by the machine driven by J. R. Anderson, 719 W. Second St., Wednesday.

Both motorists were driving west on Second. Mr. Anderson attempted to make a sudden turn and the cars collided. Neither driver was hurt. The automobile owned and driven by Dr. D. E. Spahr, Springfield

Pike, was damaged in a head-on collision with the automobile driven by Mrs. Frank Willett, two miles north of Xenia on the Springfield Pike, Thursday afternoon.

Mrs. Willett was driving south and Dr. Spahr north, when Mrs. Willett tried to pass a wagon. She failed to notice the approach of the Spahr car and both were badly damaged.

The Willett car was occupied by Mrs. Willett, Mrs. Owen Swadener and five children. No one was hurt.

HELP YOURSELF TO HEALTH

Jealous Women

YOU can't blame them. Beauty and health are given but they are difficult to keep. No wonder women guard them jealously. No wonder their mirrors reveal the furtive glances of the afraid. It is too bad that women do not realize that constipation's ruinous poisons undermine health, destroy beauty, sap vitality and sicken with headaches. But thank goodness, beauty and health may be safeguarded by safely, surely and permanently relieving constipation with Kellogg's ALL-BRAN.

No matter if constipation has become chronic, Kellogg's ALL-BRAN will bring permanent relief. This is why: ALL-BRAN journeys through the body unchanged in fiber. It is what doctors call a bulk food. It is 100% bran and brings 100% results.

As Kellogg's ALL-BRAN sweeps through the intestine, it cleans and purifies—stimulates the flow of digestive juices—absorbs and carries moisture. It causes a lagged intestine to function as nature intended.

That's the splendid thing about the action of Kellogg's ALL-BRAN—it promotes natural, healthy and regular elimination.

Eat two tablespoonfuls of Kellogg's ALL-BRAN every day—in chronic cases, with every meal. If eaten regularly, it is guaranteed to bring permanent relief or the grocer returns the purchase price. Its delightful nutty flavor makes it good as a cereal. Serve with milk or cream alone, or with fresh or preserved fruit—sprinkle over other cereals; cook with hot cereals; use in soups, or in the recipes on the package.

Be sure you get Kellogg's ALL-BRAN. Don't accept a part-bran product, for it cannot do a whole-bran job. Chances are, it will do no good at all. Don't take chances. All grocers sell Kellogg's ALL-BRAN. Leading hotels and restaurants serve it.

It's A Great World!

Wednesday afternoon I turned to Harold one of my assistants and told him to take a couple hours off—go out on the highways down town here and FIND OUT WHAT PEOPLE WERE TALKING ABOUT!

Harold looked puzzled but after a bit put on his hat and stepped out as directed. He came back later and laid the following report on my desk. As it read sort of surprising to me I thought I'd print PART of it here. If you have time you might read it. Tisn't painful.

TWO MIDDLE AGED WOMEN: "Aren't children IMPOSSIBLE these days?"

THREE YOUTHS: "He promised to let me have a gallon when it got in and a gallon will make NINE QUARTS by golly!"

COUPLE OF FLAPPERS: "I think Michael Arlen is just simply marvelous, I really MEAN it—awfully SMART don't you think?"

THREE CAREFUL BUSINESS MEN: "It don't make a bit of difference whether you use ONE cake of yeast or three cakes—you get exactly the SAME result!"

TWO MEN (not classified): "Business will NEVER come back to what it was. The auto has simply RUINED this country."

IN A CIGAR STORE: "No champion EVER came back who laid off as long as Dempsey. Can't be done."

PLUMP MAN IN A DEPARTMENT STORE: "I'm NOT going to wear NO corset no matter WHAT the style is."

HORRIFIED OLD LADY: "My dear I'm telling you she had n't a THING on except just one of these silky silk things."

There were five other reports but they were too exciting to stand the day light on a cold dignified page like this—so they're omitted. No one said anything FOR or AGAINST the drug stores so maybe I'm lucky to be left out. Further there's no "moral" to this yarn and no lesson to be learned or taught. It's just a little slice of things AS THEY ARE.

Shanty Says:

I hope to live 480 months MORE! I've already lived 420 months and believe ME every ONE of 'em have been PLENTY interesting. The next 420 are as full of juice as the first ones I wouldn't trade 'em for any OTHER set of months ANYONE EVER had since this ole ball of mud got the habit of chasing its tail around Old Sol! Yessir it's a great world!

This Is a

Proclamation!

I now declare that the CANDY SEASON is WIDE OPEN! You may now buy candy here freely and without fear of criticism or other evil effects! I've got some darn fine lines and the entire force here are going to eat themselves silly unless you folks dash in here and take it off my hands. Here are a few OTHER candy suggestions.

Describe Your Liver Please!!

"My liver is a large spongy affair FULL OF BILE. Normally it exudes this bile into the lower bowel and THEN I am NOT constipated. Let the liver QUIT doing this however and I'm OUTTA LUCK! It's then I use Rexall Liver Salts to jolt ole liver into action again!"

WE NOW CARRY A FULL LINE OF ALL CIGARETTES!

Don't Laff at The "Charleston!"

Our forefathers hollered their heads off at the waltz and two-step and what Good did it do! Looking BACK did it do any HARM? Why fuss with things just because they're NEW. So learn the Charleston! Do it NOW! And the easiest way to GET these tricky Charleston steps is FIRST get the RIGHT music on the RIGHT records—which some we have here in ample quantity—and they're some dingers what I mean!

We Sure Would Feel Bad!!

Imagine how we'd feel if a lot of dried up ole fossils got together and had a law passed making it a crime to use cold creams, face powders, lip sticks, and skin tonics! Reckon I'd have to do a bit of boot-legging for a lot of you good customers! Yes? Honestly now, haven't we got just a dandy toilet department? Have you seen our new Shari line?

Sunday School Lessons

GIFTS FOR THE TABERNACLE
GOLDEN TEXT: Honor Jehovah with thy substance and with the first fruits of all thy increase. Proverbs 3, 10. TIME: Some time in the latter half of the year beginning in March, B. C. 1498. PLACE: Still in the Sinai region.

LESSON TEXT: Exodus 35:20-29. And all the congregation of the children of Israel departed from the presence of Moses. And they came, every one whose heart stirred him up, and every one whom his spirit made willing, and brought Jehovah's offering, for the work of the tent of meeting, and for all service thereof, and for the holy garments.

And when came, both men and women, as many as were willing hearted, and brought brooches, and ear rings, and signet-rings, and arm-lets, all jewels of gold; even every man that offered an offering of gold unto Jehovah. And every man, with whom was found blue, and purple, and scarlet, and fine linen and goats' hair, and rams' skin dyed red, and sealskins, brought them.

Every one that did offer an offering of silver and brass brought Jehovah's offering; and every man with whom was found acacia wood for any work of the service, brought it.

And all the women that were wise-hearted did spin with their hands, and brought that which they had spun, the blue, and the purple, the scarlet, and the fine linen.

And all the women whose heart stirred them up in wisdom spun goats' hair.

And the rulers brought the onyx stones, and the stones to be set for the ephod, and for the breast plate.

And the spice, and the oil; for the light, and for the anointing oil, and for the sweet incense.

The children of Israel brought a free-will-offering unto Jehovah; every man and woman, whose heart made them willing to bring for all the work, which Jehovah had commanded to be made by Moses.

INTRODUCTION: The latter part of the Book of Exodus relates to the tent of worship which served as their temple, synagogue and represents the church today which we enjoy, as a place of worship to God. Again as well as Jewish and Christian lands have eagerly made their places of worship places of beauty and splendor, which points to holiness, but one must not think that building the fine structure or tent of worship is sufficient for replacing holiness. Our reason today is on giving and this is an important side of the question of religion. God's grace is free, but in this day and age it is absolutely necessary to use money and other things of value in order to enjoy and distribute His grace and plans.

1. AROUSED MINDS AND HEARTS: In our lesson text we are told that those whose hearts were stirred up and had willing hearts came and gave beautiful and costly gems, cloth, wool, etc., for the making of the tent of worship. That is the secret of generous giving, and a moved heart and a willing spirit. We discount a tightwad and naturally God loves a cheerful giver. If our minds realize as they should and our hearts appreciate what God has done for us, our hearts will be stirred and our spirits willing to give liberally to God as a thank offering for His blessings.

2. EVERY ONE: Each and every one that had felt their obligation to give to God's cause came and gave something. They were enthusiastic about this popular movement of giving. We must not be misled and think that this money matter is an injected business matter, but rather we must realize that it is a very vital and important issue. The Bible tells of the widow's mite and this points us to the fact that we cannot all give in the same degree and measure but we can all give to some degree and measure. Children should be taught early in life to give unto God that which is God's. If each and everyone gave what a simple matter it would be to finance God's work and rescue His children.

3. GIFTS FROM HIS OWN LABOR: Having come out of slavery we naturally realize that this people had very little money in their possession and in fact they had no use for money because God was caring for and feeding them here on their long journey. But they brought the goods raised and made with their own hands and with their skill. The men brought their goat's hair and rams' skins dyed red and seal skins and the women spun with their hands. There is a close connection between worship and giving. Money is a standard by which we measure our gifts to Jehovah. We must give grace to the degree and with the spirit of the widow when she threw her mite.

4. SYSTEMATIC GIVING: Haphazard giving is inefficient. Giving should be done as we conduct our house and business matters. System is most essential in every line of business and should be considered just as much so in our giving to the Church and to the moral and community causes. We could have more joy and the gospel could be spread more rapidly if all gave more systematically.

5. JOY WITH LIBERALLY: Our lesson text informs us that the Hebrews gave liberally and joyfully. Do you think that giving is a duty or debt, rather consider it a privilege and delight. As an expression of gladness the Hebrews blew their silver trumpets as they made their offering, and therefore we should rejoice in the spirit as we help spread the gospel and Christ's teachings, locally and around the world.

MILLIONS FROM DIME: There is a limit to what one man can earn with his own brain and hands. Big fortunes come from making others, or your money, to work for you. Twenty dollars a day in wages is not equal to having three hundred employees each earn ten cents a day for you. Recently a man gave $25,000,000 to welfare endowment fund. Those millions were gathered from profits on the myriad purchases in his five and ten cent stores. The advice to would-be Rockefeller and Fords is clear. However, we may not all have others working for us. This would be like living by taking on one another's washing. Most of us will always have to work for someone else. The thing is that we should get a fair share of what we help to build and earn.

BIBLE STORY
"Joseph is long since dead, and now Simeon is as good as dead, and you want to take Benjamin from me." And even though Reuben offered to leave his own two sons, as a pledge for the return of Benjamin, the old man would not listen to him. Yet still the famine grew sorer, and Jacob had to face the matter once more. For when he asked his sons to go into Egypt again for corn, Judah replied that they dare not go without Benjamin. He himself, he said, would answer for Benjamin's safety; but without him, he would not go. Only by Jacob's advice they carried a special present for the viceroy and double money with them, in case the money returned on their last journey should have been a mistake. And in due time they came to Egypt, and were brought before Joseph.

Now when Joseph saw Benjamin, he knew that his brothers had been true to their word, and he longed to be kind to them. Only in the joy of his heart, he would have it all come about in his own way, and at his own time, and he was unawares. So he summoned them to dine with him in his great house; but when these country-bred strangers were brought into such a home they were terrified, and thought that the viceroy meant to make slaves of them. Therefore they spoke to Joseph's house steward, and told him all about the money, and how they had brought double money to pay all the debt. Then, he knowing what was in his master's mind, spoke comfortably to them, and brought Simeon back to them out of the prison; and at last they came to Joseph's dining room, and gave him, bowing low, the present they had brought.

The Joseph asked after the welfare of the old man, their father, and seeing Benjamin, he said, "Is this the younger brother of whom you spoke to me?" And turning to Benjamin he said: "God be gracious to thee, my son." But he could say no more, for his heart was full, and he had to take himself into another room and weep in secret. When he had mastered his feelings he came back, and the brothers all dined before him; but he dined at a separate table, because being as they believed, an Egyptian, he could not eat beside a Hebrew with being defiled. Then as they sat at meat, Joseph, as a special mark of grace, sent food from his own table to them all, but even so, he could not help show his greater love for his own brother, Benjamin, for he sent him five times as much as to the others. Thus they all feasted and forgot their fears.

BRIEFLY TOLD
The Lowest Known Temperature is 269.5 degrees below zero—the temperature of liquid oxygen. One of the earliest attempts at blood transfusion took place in the 14th Century when an effort was made to prolong the life of Pope Innocent VIII. The attempt failed, and three youths who gave their blood died from their sacrifices. Tennis on roller skates is the latest California hobby. Soldiers in the Revolutionary War were paid $6.67 a month. Congress later voted them free land. In addition to catching an eight-inch trout, a fisherman in the Adirondacks got a gold watch and chain, the fob on the watch having caught the line when the fish struck.

FIFTEEN GIRLS IN FINALS OF ANNUAL BEAUTY PAGEANT

ATLANTIC CITY, N. J., Sept. 10.—Fifteen girls, mostly brunettes and blue eyed, but all excited, today awaited the decision of fifteen teen male judges that by night will make one of them "Miss America" of 1926.

They are the five survivors from each division in the preliminary eliminations of the Atlantic City beauty contest.

The popular belief that gentlemen prefer blondes is belied by the fact that ten have dark tresses. Most of them are blue eyed and they are well matched in height.

The second severe test came this morning when the judges met, with the public barred and cut, and the list to five. This afternoon it will be cut to two.

Tonight on the million dollar plier will come the climax. With Miss America of 1925 (Miss Fay Lanphier) and Miss Atlantic City (Miss Eleanor Hoffman) on gold on thrones, a huge golden apple will be brought in.

In the apple will be the names of the two survivors. Miss Atlantic City will cut the apples and the names will be brought out. Then the judges will vote, one by one. When one contestant has eight votes, she will be crowned Miss America of 1926.

SCHOOL WILL START AT 8:25 O'CLOCK

Elementary grades of Xenia City will start Monday morning at 8:25 instead of 8:15, as previously announced, Superintendent H. C. Pender further disclosed Thursday.

Simplifying the announcement of Wednesday, he said Orient Hill fifth and sixth grades will be transferred to Spring Hill and McKinley. There will be some transferring done in the fifth and sixth grades in McKinley and Spring Hill Schools to make the proper adjustment.

MINISTERS MEET

COLUMBUS, O., Sept. 10.—More than fifty laymen and ministers of Columbus M. E. churches will attend the 150th annual meeting of the Ohio Conference of the Methodist Episcopal Church, convening in Gallipolis, next Tuesday. The meetings will continue until September 20, when assignments of ministers will be announced.

LENDERS WILL MEET SOON IN CLEVELAND

CLEVELAND, Ohio, Sept. 10.—More than 300 men from all sections of the United States, representing an investment of millions of dollars, will gather in Cleveland September 14-17 for the annual convention of the Ohio Industrial Lenders Association. Industrial lenders loan money on chattels. Virtually every large city in the United States have a delegate in the national convention. The State association is to hold its session the first day of the gathering. Headquarters will be in the Statler Hotel.

Members of the Ohio association will act as hosts at a luncheon to be given on September 15. Thos. L. Pearson, secretary of Y. M. C. A. of Lima, Ohio, will deliver an address.

Col. D. H. Pond, Cleveland, president of the Ohio Industrial Lenders Association will preside at a banquet to be given the evening of September 16. Speakers will include Cyrus Koeber, director, state department of commerce, Columbus; Congressman James T. Boggs, Sandusky; Common Pleas Judge James B. Ruhl, Cleveland; and Mayor R. D. Marshall, Cleveland. The banquet will be followed by dancing.

Every industrial leader in Ohio is to act as a member of the general reaction committee. Many ladies are expected to attend and a program has been arranged for them.

THREE COWS KILLED BY MILK SICKNESS

Three purebred Shorthorn cows, a calf and one horse, belonging to Rea Chenoweth, grain dealer and farm owner of London, died recently from what is known as "trembles" or milk sickness. It is thought by Dr. J. C. Hunt, veterinarian, who treated the animals at the Chenoweth farm on the old Xenia road, three miles southwest of London, that the continued wet weather has caused prevalence of the tremble weed, eating of which is believed to cause the disease.

Eight or ten years ago a mother and two children died on a farm near London of what was pronounced milk sickness. The disease also caused the deaths of considerable livestock near London a number of years ago.

PINCHED BABY AND ESCAPES BURGLAR

NEW LEXINGTON, O., Sept. 10.—By pinching her baby and making it cry, Mrs. W. P. Shaw outwitted a burglar who covered her with a revolver and threatened her life at her home here last night. Awakened at midnight by the burglar Mrs. Shaw pinched her infant who responded with lusty yells. Making an excuse to put it in a cradle, Mrs. Shaw rushed out to a neighbor for help.

WHO'S WHO IN THE STORY:

ROSILYN RIDGEWAY—A beautiful, cold society girl who is best on her feet when she is gossiping that she has been married for her money. Before her enormous fortune was left her, she had been an over-worked little drudge in her father's inn.

LANDIS RIDGEWAY, her husband is a brilliant, fascinating man, who was forced into the marriage by his mother. Rosilyn, loving her husband, knows he is still in love with Lydia Harbrook, a beautiful, cold society girl who is best on her feet when she is gossiping that she has been married for her money.

STEVE VAN VORST, is a wealthy old roue, friendly with Rosilyn, but once, and yet is deeply interested in her. Lydia learns of this interest, and she and Briscoe concoct a plot whereby Rosilyn and Briscoe will see a great deal of each other, and Lydia will have a chance to exert her wiles upon Landis. The plan works, and Landis, finding himself often alone with Lydia falls under her spell once more.

Van Vorst, however, hungering for her love, decides to use Marietta Fernandez, a dancer and sweetheart of Briscoe's in connection with a scheme. These two come to New York where Marietta begins to vamp Landis away from Lydia, leaving a clear field for the elderly schemer.

In the country at the Ridgeway place, Rosilyn, in a fever of jealousy and anxiety over the protracted disappearance of her husband seeks the solace of the countryside. After an exciting adventure she is rescued by Briscoe who tells a "fishy" story to account for his proximity to the scene. Soon after Landis effects a reconciliation with Rosilyn and becomes his old lovable self—in the city meanwhile Marietta feels her power over Briscoe declining and commits suicide.

Lydia then urges Briscoe to compromise Rosilyn so as to give herself more power over Landis.

Chapter 69

A RENDEZVOUS

Driving back to the inn on the marshes Rosilyn meets with an accident—while in town her husband discusses the coroner's inquest of Marietta's death.

"Briscoe was censured at the inquest," continued the young man briefly. "There were callous letters he had written—and then the girl's parting message to him—"

"And you mean that he has been trying to influence Rosilyn?" Mrs. Ridgeway's face was anxious. "I thought he was making himself rather conspicuous in dancing attendance on her—but you were away so much—and she is young and ignorant—that cliff adventure seemed odd, though I'd trust Rosilyn's integrity to the uttermost."

Her son's face had a shamed look.

"I've been a fool. And worse. I see that now, when it's maybe too late. I—oh, it's difficult to express—but I'm fond of her—I'm not nearly good enough for a girl like Rosilyn—if I only I had a second chance—"

The mother's heart leapt with a new hope.

"And Lydia Harbrook?" Her voice was gentle and sympathetic now. "Is all that over and done with, Landis? Rosilyn is worth a hundred Lydias."

"I know she is. I've been blind as a bat. She can't respect me."

"She loves you, Landis. You've made her suffer, but I know she loves you still. And she has a splendid, a noble nature. She could have ruined Lydia Harbrook, but she wouldn't stoop to such a thing."

"I don't quite understand," The young man had a puzzled air.

Mrs. Ridgeway hesitated, then said:

"It will be a shock to you to hear that Lydia drugs. A syringe was found in her bedroom, and then cocaine. It was cocaine, because I took the packet to the drug-store, and the druggist proved it was. Besides, have you ever noticed the tiny marks on Lydia's arms? Have you ever wondered at her unflagging gaiety, when gaiety is an asset? Have you ever marked the uncanny brilliance of her eyes, and the way she looks at one and almost through one, at certain times? Then her reactions? Lydia can go as flat as a pricked balloon. And she seems to be losing the ethical distinction between right and wrong."

Landis was stunned.

"Lydia—drugs? It's unbelievable!"

Mrs. Ridgeway said:

"Rosilyn discovered her in the very act. But it was not till I myself found out, that the child even admitted the truth about Lydia. It was noble, though mistaken, of Rosilyn to shield her, considering that Lydia's manner towards the child, and Lydia's appropriation of yourself, and Lydia's insolence, have been unbearable."

Landis almost groaned aloud, in heaviness of spirit.

The deed was done now. Rosilyn his girl-wife—gone!

"Have you no idea of her whereabouts, mother? I'd take the car at once."

"She merely stated in her note, which arrived this morning, that she had gone off with old Annie for a holiday somewhere, and would send her address later. I've a conviction, Landis, that the child is wounded to the heart, and like all hurt creatures, wants to hide herself for a while. I don't blame her."

"Nor do I. I only blame myself. And—"

"With sudden heat 'I blame that swine Briscoe. He's turned her against me. He's—'"

"Steady. Be honest, Landis. Wasn't your own behaviour sufficient in itself to change Rosilyn towards you, if it were possible she should be changed? She's staunch and loyal and sincere."

"But she's ignorant of the world—and trusting. And a man like Briscoe—"

"Then get after Briscoe. Not that you can possibly think he's with Rosilyn."

"He's capable of anything. The inquest sort of woke me up to the fact that I've tolerated men about the place I never ought to have introduced either to you or Rosilyn! I've been d—d careless and selfish."

His mother touched him on the arm with a gesture of affection that was rare in her.

"Come, come, Landis! It isn't too late yet!"

Like a man possessed, he strode out of the house so beautifully decorated with his wife's money, following a blind instinct that might lead him to her.

In the lobby of Lydia's hotel he faced the erstwhile charmer.

"Don't snap my head off, Landis! I've nothing to do with this affair! Surely you're capable of looking after your own wife yourself, without trying to rope me in as nursemaid!" And Lydia's lips curled insolently.

He glared at her in wrath. Was this cold, callous creature the warm, flesh-and-blood woman he had once loved madly?

But the spell was broken now. The scales were lifted from his eyes, and he saw her in true colors.

"Have you any idea where Rosilyn is?" he rapped out like a pistol shot.

Lydia put her two hands to her ears in pretended dismay.

"Don't shout at me!" Then she added, with malice:

"Maybe I've a fair idea where your wife is, maybe I've more than a fair idea that she's not alone?"

"Speak out! But don't insult her!"

"S—sh! Don't create a scene! Where are your manners?"

"Manners be blowed! What do you know? Out with it!"

Lydia led him to a more secluded corner, and proceeded, with maddening deliberation, to light a cigarette.

He refused one, watching her with an almost positive dislike. The reaction against her influence had been absolute. She realized it.

She would hurt him all she could.

"I won't beat about the bush. But don't murder me! It's Rupert Briscoe you ought to get after! He's the snake in the grass, if you only knew it."

"Well?" Landis hands were trembling, as though he yearned to get them on Briscoe's throat.

Lydia lowered her voice discreetly.

"I'm not supposed to know much about it, but from something Rupert said only a day or so ago, he's more than a little bit interested in your wife. And I'm afraid, strange as it may seem to a husband of your charm! (though of course these fascinations haven't been levelled much in her direction, have they?) that your wife reciprocates Briscoe's interest."

"You lie!" said Landis, in her very face. "You lie."

Lydia laughed shrilly. She rose. "Go down to the marshland inn, you fool, and you'll find them both together there! Then give me the lie direct again! I know what I know, and your precious wife is—"

But Landis, like a man determined, had traversed the lounge in two strides to the exit, and was gone.

TOMORROW: "She's Dead."

LEADING EDUCATOR VICTIM OF ILLNESS OF YEAR'S DURATION

Briere, a woman of high literary attainments, and a writer for many magazines, who survives him.

Dr. Scarborough was long a contributor to the press of his country, including the leading magazines. He was since 1893 the exegetical editor of the A. M. E. Church Sunday School publications. He was a member of a number of learned societies: American Philological, American Dialect, American Social Science, Archaeological Institute of America, American Spelling Reform, American Folk-lore, American Modern Language, American Political and Social Science, the Egyptian Exploration Fund Association, National Geographical Society, American Negro Academy, The American Japan Society, New York Academy of Science and Affiliated Societies, the Society for the Encouragement of Arts, Manufactures and Commerce, London, England, a society founded more than two hundred years ago. He had several times been one of the invited orators at the Lincoln League Banquet of the State of Ohio. He was appointed by the Governor of Ohio a delegate to the National Conference in St. Louis in the interest of Negro Education. He was the only Negro representative on the board of the Lincoln Memorial Association of Ohio, which is presided over by the governor.

During the war he was a member of the Food Commission for the State of Ohio and was also appointed by the governor of the State as a member of the National Council of Defence. He also assisted in looking after colored labor in Ohio to the end of aiding in War movements. He was a member of the Republican Advisory Committee of Ohio.

As War president of Wilberforce he obtained the Students' Army Training Corps for the University, sustained by the U. S. Government and later obtained the Reserve Officers' Training Corps at the University, which institution sent large contingents of students to the training camps and over seas.

He was a delegate to the Ecumenical Methodist Conference in London in 1901, representing the African Methodist Episcopal Church, and was in attendance upon the Universal Race Congress in London (1911), representing Wilberforce University of which he was president. He was appointed delegate to the Ecumenical Conference held in London, England, September 2 to 16, 1921. He also attended the meeting of the International Classical Association at Cambridge University, Cambridge, England, August 2 to 5, 1921, as one of the representatives of the American Philological Association.

His interests were varied. He was well known locally, nationally and internationally. He was an outstanding figure in Ohio politics for years, and was appointed by President Harding as Assistant in Farm Studies in the U. S. Dept. of Agriculture, in 1921 holding this position until the year following the President's death.

He lived a wide and useful life, interested in all things tending to advance the race and humanity. He was a caretaking, loving son and husband; a cultured, courteous Christian gentleman, and an inspiring teacher. He was beloved by thousands of pupils whose lives he has helped to form and to whom he has always known as "the students' friend." The work he did, the life he lived as example will not die, but his influence, will be felt and go infinitely far in solving the problems that face the race.

Dr. W. A. Galloway, who wrote the preceding obituary at the request of Dr. Scarborough, followed with this tribute:

"The writer's acquaintance with Dr. Scarborough has extended over many years past. It was personal and always pleasant and profitable. During his long presidency of Wilberforce University, he was ex-officio member of the board of trustees of which board the writer was president for twenty-four years.

"His great value to this important work was therefore well and intimately known. A sincere appreciation is here given his valuable educational labor for the cause he loved so much and served so well. It must be added to the history of this distinguished educator, that his active life's work extended not only to the uplift of his own race, but as well and sincerely to every race and people of our great Republic.

"Among the many gratifying and interesting incidents of his work as a publicist, two stand out in my recollection as showing that worth makes the man and that in the higher realm of letters no racial prejudice exists. These are: When he delivered an address before the American Philological Society at the University of Virginia, an institution that had never admitted Negroes in any capacity except servile. There he stood under the portrait of General Robert E. Lee in the presence of a large audience, discussing a passage from Thucydides and receiving at the close, great and inspiring applause. Another was the invitation, while in Cambridge, Eng., from Cardinal Mercier, to attend the laying of the cornerstone of the New Louvain Library in Belgium. Many other notable incidents have been a part of his remarkable career, but these two well illustrate the exceptional place he enjoyed in scholastic fields.

"In the best interpretation of the word, he was and will continue to be remembered as an educator, patriot and publicist. It has been written that 'no man is a hero to his own physician' but this cannot be written of Dr. Scarborough. The writer was his physician for all the period between 1890 and the hour of his departure. This friend of humanity patient and forbearing during the trying times and circumstances of his long and busy life, never faltered in life's amenities, never failed in his optimism and never ceased to labor for the public's welfare."

OSTER HEARING AGAINST LENGEL COMES TO END

COMMISSION WILL OFFER DECISION IN HEARING MONDAY

Defense Fails To Call Witnesses As Case Closed

CANTON, O., Sept. 10.—The hearing of oster charges against S. A. Lengel, suspended chief of police came to an abrupt end before the civil service commission today. When the testimony against Lengel was completed this morning, Lengel's attorneys announced no defense witnesses would be called.

Arguments made by attorneys for both sides and then the commission announced it would make public its decision Monday. Lengel was suspended by Mayor S. M. Swarts for inefficiency and neglect of duty in the sensational shake up of the police force that followed the brutal murder of Don R. Mellett.

CANTON, O., Sept. 10.—Carl Studer, underworld chief, making since late yesterday after two perjury charges were filed against him surrendered to police today. He was arrested by Detective George Bresford.

One of the perjury warrants charges Studer gave false testimony under oath when he told the civil service commission during yesterday's hearing of oster charges against Police Chief Lengel, that he had no connection with a house of ill fame in Fourth St., occupied by Ruth Gordon, a painted woman of the underworld.

The woman swore she split the profits of the house "50-50" with Studer and that he paid the rent and attended to the fines when the inmates were arrested.

The other warrant charges perjury when Studer swore that he did not visit Miss Gordon Wednesday night to collect his share of the day's earnings. Ruth swore she paid Studer $12 Wednesday night, that being fifty per cent of the day's receipts at the vice house.

ITALIAN FAMILIES PROVE PROLIFIC

ROME, Sept. 10.—Premier Mussolini's recent investigation of large Italian families has revealed 20,000 reasons why Italy dislikes the American immigration law which virtually has closed the United States to the surplus populations of southern Europe.

The investigation showed that there were living in Italy, 20,000 mothers who had borne more than ten children. The annual increase in the Italian population is about 500,000, and while Mussolini anxiously searches for areas suitable for settlement by the surplus sons of Italy, he is well satisfied with this guarantee against race suicide.

COUPLE END LIVES IN CAPITOL HOTEL

WASHINGTON, Sept. 10.—The bodies of Mr. and Mrs. Frederick H. Doyle, of Brooklyn, who killed themselves in a local hotel with poison were being sent today to relatives in Providence, R. I. The mystery surrounding the couple was maintained when undertakers declined information as to the Providence relatives.

TO FIX BLAME

EAST LIVERPOOL, O., Sept. 10.—Responsibility of the wreck Wednesday of an interurban car on the East Liverpool, Steubenville and Beaver Valley traction line will be fixed at a hearing in Steubenville next Tuesday, it was announced here. The accident which caused the death of one man and injured eighteen persons occurred north of Steubenville when the interurban car crashed into a standing chemical tank.

Dr. W. S. Scarborough, Ex-President Of Wilberforce University Succumbs

DR. W. S. SCARBOROUGH

LEADING EDUCATOR VICTIM OF ILLNESS OF YEAR'S DURATION

Funeral Sunday at 1:30
P. M.—Body Will Lie
In State Sunday

Dr. William Sanders Scarborough, noted scholar and educator, and ex-president of Wilberforce University, died at his home at Wilberforce, at 7:30 o'clock Thursday night, after an illness of about one year, in the latter part of which he rapidly declined.

For forty-three years he was connected with Wilberforce University, from 1877 to 1920, and was its president twelve years (1905-1920), giving it a lifetime of faithful self-sacrificing service.

Funeral services will be held Sunday afternoon at 1:30 at Galloway Auditorium, Wilberforce University. The remains will be removed to the auditorium Sunday morning, with a military escort, to lie in state.

Dr. H. H. Summers, Paine Theological Seminary and pastor of Trinity A. M. E. Church, will have charge of the services, assisted by Dean George F. Woodson, of the seminary. Miss Hattie Q. Brown and William A. Anderson will take part in the services. Interment will be made in Tarbox Cemetery, near Wilberforce.

He was born in Macon, Ga., February 16, 1852, and was the only surviving child of Jeremiah and Frances Scarborough.

He received his early education in Lewis High School of Macon and spent two years at Atlanta University preparing for Yale, but entered Oberlin College, Oberlin, Ohio, instead, graduating with the degree of A. B. in 1875. Later he received from Oberlin the degree of A. M. and he was later honored by various colleges with the degree of Ph. D., and L. L. D. He spent part of the year following graduation in special study of the Semitic languages and Hellenistic Greek.

In 1877 he was elected head of the Classical Department in Wilberforce University. In 1881 he published through A. S. Barnes and Co., a Greek text book—"First Lessons in Greek"—the first and only Greek book ever written by a Negro. This book was widely used by both white and colored schools of the country, especially in the North. He also wrote a treatise entitled, "The Birds of Aristophanes—A Theory of Interpretation"—aside from numerous tracts and pamphlets, covering a variety of subjects, classical, archaeological, sociological and racial.

He wrote many papers for various societies to which he belonged, especially the Philological Society. In 1891 he was transferred to the chair of Hellenistic Greek in Payne Theological Seminary of Wilberforce University, which chair he filled six years. In 1897 he was again elected professor of Latin and Greek in the University and was made vice-president. In 1908 he was elected president of Wilberforce University.

In 1881 he married Sarah C.

CONDITIONS IN COAL INDUSTRY INDICATE PRICES TO BE LOWER

Price at Mines Now Lower Than Year Ago And Only Slightly Higher Than In 1924—Experts Say
Consumer Need Not Worry

WASHINGTON, Sept. 10.—Conditions in the coal industry now when consumers are beginning to store the winter's fuel supply indicate prices will be considerably lower than last year.

The present average cost of a ton of soft coal in the United States is $2.04 spot at the mines compared with $2.21 at the same time a year ago and $2.01 in 1924. Strong demand for fuel is holding the price up but with an end of the British strike in prospect before winter, with labor conditions here indicating smooth sailing at least until next spring, and with production running higher than the seasonal average of the last three years, experts of the bureau of mines here indicated today the fuel consumer is in for at least one winter without worrying.

The British strike is causing increasing demand for American fuel abroad and there is some trouble over car congestion in some districts. These two facts were given as reasons for the advance of spot coal from $1.96 to $2.04, August 4 to August 9.

Exportation of coal from the United States, however, is only about 3 or 4 per cent of the total production.

Not since 1923 has the soft coal mines been working as hard as they are now. Up to Aug. 28, 353,505,000 tons have been produced this year compared with 315,295,000 last year.

Anthracite production is running a little lower this year than last. Production of hard coal to August 28 this year amounted to 52,243,000 compared with 60,794,000 last year.

CONDYLIS TROOPS HOLD UPPER HAND

ATHENS, Sept. 10.—Troops loyal to General Condylis, dictator of Greece, held the whip hand today in Greece's latest revolution, the ninth of the century, and unlike the recent ones, a bloody one.

Colonels Zervos and Dittirly of the republican guards who revolted yesterday are under arrest and face summary punishment. Fierce fighting occurred between their forces and government troops before the rebels capitulated. There were many casualties. The battle was fought on the outskirts of the city.

DRY RAIDERS GET "GHOST" AND STILL

YOUNGSTOWN, O., Sept. 10.—Braving the dangers of a "haunted house," here, dry agents early today captured the "ghost" and twenty gallons of alleged liquor. Cal Hoffman, state dry agent, and Constables Clapper and Hinman secreted themselves in the deserted house and soon the "ghost" appeared coming down the dilapidated stairway. The agents followed the silent figure, and pounced upon "it" when the "ghost" inserted a rubber tube in the wall of the basement and the sound of bubbling liquid and the odor of liquor followed.

POSSES SEEK PAIR WHO KILLED YOUTH

CHESTER, Pa., Sept. 10.—Posses of farmers and citizens today scoured the country side north of here for the slayers of Walter Harden, nineteen-year-old youth, who was shot to death defending two girls from attack by two masked negroes last night. Police were called by William Hamilton, a companion of Harden, who escaped after a beating by the negroes and ran to a farm house and telephoned this city. The two girls with Harden and Hamilton were driving on a lonely road near Bridgewater when the attack occurred.

Colonel Thomas W. Miller (right), accompanied by his attorney, is shown on his way to court. He was on trial in New York on charges of conspiracy while alien property custodian.

VICTIM OF BANDITS WAS GREENE COUNTY NATIVE; IS BURIED

Chester Custerbender, Killed in Gary, Ind., Lived at Mt. Zion

Chester Custerbender, 51, killed by bandits in a raid on a pool room and cigar store where he was employed as a clerk in Gary, Ind., last Thursday night, was a former Greene County man and was born and reared in the Mt. Zion neighborhood in Beaver Creek Twp.

His funeral was held in Dayton Sunday afternoon at the home of his niece, Mrs. Paul Myers, and interment took place in Mt. Zion Cemetery. Two friends of the murdered man accompanied the body to Greene County. W. F. Custerbender, Bellbrook, is a brother of the bandit's victim and Mrs. Ida Archer of Shilo, near Dayton, is a sister. Mr. Custerbender was the youngest son of the late Mr. and Mrs. Jacob Custerbender of near Mt. Zion. He left Greene County about fifteen years ago and had been in Gary since that time.

Details of the hold-up in which Mr. Custerbender lost his life were carried in news dispatches. Custerbender was a clerk in the cigar store, had just stepped into the pool room connected with the store, when the bandit entered. Thinking he was joking when he pointed a gun at him and ordered him to hold up his hands, Custerbender pushed the gun aside and said "get out of here with that thing." When the bandit persisted, Custerbender grappled with him and was shot through the heart. In making his escape the bandit shot and dangerously wounded a policeman and was shot and killed by the officer.

IS FRUIT HANGING OVER ROAD PUBLIC?

STUEBENVILLE, O., Sept. 10.—A peach picker wants the courts here to decide if fruit laden boughs extending over a public highway are not public property. John Hatfield, 30, picked some fruit while driving past the farm of Fred Will, 60. Will peppered Hatfield with buck shot on the theory the latter was stealing. Now Hatfield has charged Will with shooting to kill, claiming he was not trespassing when he picked the fruit.

ARREST SUSPECT IN PAY ROLL ROBBERY

CLEVELAND, O., Sept. 10.—A suspect in the $8400 Jaite paper Co., pay roll robbery was held by police here today.

The suspect was arrested at his home here at 4:30 a. m., on a private tip received at headquarters. Since the four bandits who held up Charles Jaite, president of the paper company and Julius K. Kreckel, treasurer, wore masks, identification will be difficult.

The hold up occurred yesterday near Northfield.

LANGLEY BEFORE BOARD OF PAROLES

ATLANTA, Ga., Sept. 10.—Former Congressman John W. Langley, of Kentucky, sentenced to the federal penitentiary here for conspiring to violate the Volstead law, was before the parole board here today in connection with his effort to obtain release.

Langley has been serving as editor of "Good Words," the prison publication.

GERMANY WELCOMED TO LEAGUE WITH CHEERS

Strasemann and Briand talked of peace.

"The league must achieve universality embracing all nations on a basis of equality," said Strasseman. "Germany is determined to adopt these ideals as the basis of her policy. We belong to peoples seeking to emerge to the light from darkness. May the league's work be based on the ideals of peace, freedom and unity to which we pledge earnest devotion."

Briand pictured the end of war and the permanence of peace.

"No more war, no more suffering hereafter with our international differences," said Briand. "We will go before the courts like private citizens. France has no more further need of heroic demonstrations than has Germany, and in the future we will work together like brothers. I do not mean to say that all differences and difficulties have been settled, but that hereafter we will settle them peacefully."

TWO ADMIT BEING ON FARM WHEN HALL-MILLS MURDER OCCURRED

Witnesses Who Kept Secret Four Years Break
Down After Hours of Questioning—Support
"Pig Woman's" Story

SOMERVILLE, N. J., Sept. 10.—Ralph V. Gorsline has admitted he was on the Phillips farm and heard shots and screams the night the Rev. Edward W. Hall and Mrs. Eleanor Mills were murdered four years ago.

Inspector John W. Underwood, of the Jersey City police, announced today that Gorsline had made a complete statement after having been questioned almost steadily for more than twenty-four hours.

The secret he had kept for four years was first revealed by Miss Catherine Rastall who, it was reported, admitted she was with Gorsline in De Russy's lane on the night of the murder.

Miss Rastall was questioned all yesterday afternoon and last night. Early today she was permitted to leave the state police headquarters here, where the questioning took place and returned to her home in New Brunswick.

Gorsline, however, was not permitted to sleep. All through the night the steady questioning continued. Long after daybreak Gorsline finally was permitted to go.

Gorsline, who was a vestryman in the Church of St. John the Divine, New Brunswick, of which Hall was pastor, has denied for four years that he knew anything of the murder.

Detective Underwood announced today that Gorsline had admitted that on the night of the murders he had driven Miss Rastall to De Russy's lane. He said he had backed his car into the lane to turn around when he heard one shot, then the scream of a woman, then three more shots. He said he did not stop to investigate, fearing his presence in the lane would be disclosed, but drove back to New Brunswick.

Miss Rastall admitted to the detectives, who questioned her from early yesterday afternoon until

RECEIVE BIDS

MARION, O., Sept. 10.—Bids have been received for the construction of the $800,000 memorial monument to President Warren G. Harding at the headquarters of the Harding Memorial Association here. Contracts will be let in Washington, October 4 by trustees of the association.

LAUNCH ATTACK

COLUMBUS, O., Sept. 10.—The Democrats have opened fire upon Republicans with a statement by T. E. Dye, executive committee chairman charging that G. O. P. leaders evaded the corrupt practices act in failing to report the sources from which they raised funds to pay off the $69,000 deficit incurred two years ago.

"SECOND RICHEST MAN LIVES IN DETROIT"—GUESS WHO!

WASHINGTON, Sept. 10.—America has one billionaire, several hundred multimillionaires and at least 11,000 ordinary millionaires, according to Joseph McCoy, actuary of the U. S. treasury.

The wealthiest man in the country resides in New York City, McCoy told the United Press in an interview today. The next richest man lives in Detroit while the third wealthiest person lives "either in Detroit or Chicago."

McCoy said he could not officially name the wealthiest persons, but it was understood that the billionaire is John D. Rockefeller, with Henry Ford a close second, Edsel Ford vies with the unnamed Chicagoan for third place.

"The number of millionaires cannot longer be determined from income tax returns," McCoy said. "The latest returns show only seventy-four persons in this class, but that is because the tax is levied on income and not on actual wealth."

"The really rich men have portions of their money in jewels and other valuables that

COMPLETES SWIM IN ELEVEN HOURS TO SET NEW SPEED RECORD

Pleased To Defeat German—Kemmerich Swims Baltic

ST. MARGARETS BAY, England, Sept. 10.—Georges Michel, veteran French swimmer, broke the world's record for swimming the English channel here early today when he completed the crossing in eleven hours and six minutes.

"Ja Battu L'Allemand." (I've beaten the German) were Michel's first words as he staggered up the deserted beach.

Having left Cape Griz Nez at 8:32 last night, Michel splashed ashore here at 7:38 a. m., conquering the channel within eight minutes of the goal he set for himself. With a broad grin covering his face, the now world's champion of the newly popular sport, went immediately to "The Green Man," a tavern, and called for whiskey.

Michel lowered the record set August 30 by Ernst Vierkotter, a German, who swam the channel in twelve hours and forty two minutes. Michel had hoped to arrive here by 7:30.

"If I don't arrive on the English coast by 7:30 Friday morning, it will be a great shock to me," he told the United Press before leaving Cape Griz Nez. He was eight minutes late.

He washed off the heavy coat of grease that covered his body in the bath room at The Green Man, ate a hearty breakfast and set out by automobile for Folkestone, to register witnesses certifications of his time at the French consulate.

En route to Folkestone, Michel told his own story of the swim, declaring that champagne helped him.

"My official time was eleven hours and five minutes," he said. "I was ill twice. About 1 a. m. I became very seasick. Then at 3 a. m. I got cramps and felt terribly cold. The sea was calm except the last two hours."

"Champagne helped me. I took two drinks."

"I also ate two lumps of sugar soaked in cognac and coffee. I ate nothing else. I feel fine now, I'm glad I took the record for France."

"I was in the artillery during the war, perhaps opposite Vierkotter. I am going to the consulate because I have no passport. I am like a hunch, broad shouldered powerful man."

Five witnesses, including a French official, M. Duval, and an Englishman named Billings of Bologne, accompanied Michel on his dash aboard a tug. Duval made the trip in an official capacity to insure Michel's desire that his time could not be questioned.

But dispositions were taken from a few persons on shore at the landing time and these registered at the consulate.

Michel was a bit shaky when he first landed but the liquor stimulated him and he was in fine spirits on the trip to Folkestone.

The Frenchman rounded out his spurt with a game fight against rough seas. A southeast wind had roughened the water.

Michel wore a blue bathing suit this time to avoid recurrence of an embarrassing incident which he told him recently at Cape Griz Nez. When he had completed a long practice swim, the mayor came down to the beach to honor him and Michel stepped out naked.

STAR WITNESS IS HEARD AT TRIAL

NEW YORK, Sept. 10.—Richard E. Merten, star witness in the prosecution of Harry M. Daugherty and Thomas W. Miller, for conspiracy to defraud the government today told the details of his agreement under which he is alleged to have recovered $7,000,000 in assets of the American Metals Co., seized by the government from German owners during the war.

The agreement he said was made either with the late John T. King, Republican political leader, or the late Jesse Smith, confidant of former Attorney General Daugherty.

The agreement was made in July 1921 and was:

"That he would pay immediately $50,000 'retainer fee' to King or Smith."

"That he would pay five per cent of the value of the property recovered if his claims were allowed by the alien property custodian's office before August 15, 1921, or two and a half per cent if the claims were paid after that date."

The agreement he said was made either with the late John T. King, Republican political leader, or the late Jesse Smith, confidant of former Attorney General Daugherty.

PLAIN "STICK UP" GAMBLER THINKS GETS REPRIEVE

CLEVELAND, O., Sept. 10.—Despite denial of his appeal, Edmund Ross, youthful negro slayer, was granted a second ten day stay of execution in a fight for a new trial. The court of appeals gave Ross' attorneys ten days to bring his case before the supreme court.

TOLEDO, O., Sept. 10.—Jimmy Hayes, Toledo's wealthy sports promoter, today reiterated that he did not believe the report that "gangsters" were responsible for the attack upon him early yesterday.

Hayes was wounded by shotgun fire discharged from an automobile which pursued his machine after he failed to obey a command to halt.

"That gambling war stuff is all the bunk," Hayes, who is recovering in a local hospital, said today. "It was a plain stick up job and I was shot because I would not stop my car."

ARSENAL, SCENE OF DISASTER IN CIVIL WAR, WILL BE SOLD

PITTSBURGH, Sept. 10.—Allegheny Arsenal, center of Pittsburgh's war activities since 1914, today was placed on the auction block.

The historic landmark viewed by all important personages who have visited Pittsburgh since the days of Lafayette, will go to the highest bidder, its usefulness having disappeared.

The Old Pile of Masonry was never the scene of battle action but was the site of one of the disasters of the civil war. Seventy-four children, seventy of them girls, were killed, there when engaged in making cartridges for use by the union army. Several buildings in the Arsenal were demolished by the terrific explosion, but were soon rebuilt.

When the United States entered the World War in 1917 and Pittsburgh became one of the centers of munition manufacturing the Arsenal was utilized as a warehouse. The war ended, the Arsenal was leased for commercial purposes, and it will now be sold outright.

The Old Arsenal was built at a cost of $200,000. It was surrounded by a watch tower, 120 feet high.

WANT TO GET QUART BILLION DOLLARS?

FREMONT, Ohio, Sept. 9.—"Do you want to make a quart billion dollars clear profit inside thirty-three years?"

That is the beginning of a letter received by Mayor Connors of Fremont and signed by Edward Stebbins, Cleveland.

Complete mystery shrouded the plan by which Stebbins offered to enrich Mayor Connors. Stebbins invited the Mayor to meet him in Cleveland within ten days. That the writer is supremely confident in his plan of making a quart billion dollars is evidenced by the statement "just as true as sky above."

The mayor said the letter probably will be turned over to the postal authorities.

Health Hints

by the Father of Physical Culture

BERNARD MACFADDEN

Abdominal pains create the tendency to contract the abdominal muscles. A baby always draws up its legs when suffering from abdominal pains. You should induce muscular relaxation at once. If a small child, place the right hand over the left hand flat upon the abdomen, rotate slowly with slight pressure in a circular motion from the right side downward to the left side, and continue for some time until the child becomes quiet. A warm enema is indicated no matter how small the baby.

Lying upon the stomach sometimes eases the pain. This position is the natural one and the pressure is beneficial. In adults, whether the pains are menstrual or intestinal, the abdominal walls must be vigorously expanded by self-applied muscular rotary movements from right to left, or in the direction of the hands of a clock, exerting a strong downward pressure towards the rectum. These movements are best taken lying down with the knees drawn up. The rotations should be slow, deep, rhythmic. Resisting pressure, not so great as to cause pain, is an aid. This self-applied abdominal internal massage should, of course, be supplemental to hot enemas, stimulative hot drinks and hot abdominal applications.

In chronic abdominal pains the treatment will depend much upon the location and nature of the pains. As a rule the general regimen about to be described can be depended upon to bring relief no matter where the pain may be located, as the treatment of constitutional difficulties of this kind depends largely upon improving the quality of the blood. Complete abstinence from all nourishment with the exception that the patient is particularly requested to drink large quantities of water. By large quantities I mean on an average of from half a pint to a pint every hour during the day. This is to be continued for two days, after which he is to fast for three days not taking liquids or solids and not even water except when he has a very definite desire for it. If after following this fast regimen for three days one feels that he can conveniently continue to fast for a longer period it would be materially to his advantage.

PLANS FOR YEAR LAID BY FEDERATION

Plans to again fill the role of "big sister" to the Opportunity School were made by Federated Parent-Teacher Association, when cabinet members met at the home of Mrs. S. M. McKay, W. Church St., Thursday afternoon.

Cabinet members decided to have the annual one-day "drive" for funds for the school, September 23, when Xenia citizens will be asked to help support the school for backward children.

The State P. T. A. convention will be held at Marietta, O., October 6, 7 and 8. Mrs. McKay was chosen delegate with Mrs. E. P. Hamlin as alternate.

The president, appointed, each president of the various P. T. A. units in the city to act as a committee to assist with the sale of anti-tuberculosis seals this year.

The treasurer's report showed that the Federation spent $1,364.38 for child welfare in the city last year, with a balance of $110. Officers of the Federation this year, 1926-27 are: Mrs. S. M. McKay, president; Mrs. E. P. Hamlin, vice president; Mrs. J. J. Stout, secretary; Mrs. Adolph Moser, treasurer. The cabinet consists of the officers of the four P. T. A. units of the city: Central High, Mrs. Charles Adair, president; McKinley School, Mrs. Earl Short, president; Orient Hill, Mrs. Otis Pramer, president; Spring Hill, Mrs. Lee Fudge, president.

Mrs. McKay is calling another meeting of the cabinet for next Thursday at 7:30.

BIRTHDAY PARTY ARRANGED TUESDAY
Mr. Owen Clemans was surrounded by friends and relatives who arranged a birthday surprise at his home, Tuesday evening. Thirty-six guests were present. The evening was spent in a sociable way with refreshments of sandwiches, pickles and cake served.

Those present were: Mr. and Mrs. W. E. Clemans and son Lester; Mr. and Mrs. Ed Shaffer; Mr. and Mrs. Walter Jones and family; Mr. and Mrs. J. J. Thomas, Mr. and Mrs. Frank Woolary, Mr. and Mrs. Fred Woolary, Mr. and Mrs. Elmer Woolary and family; Mr. and Mrs. Jacob Heinz, and family; Mr. and Mrs. William Brown and family; Mr. and Mrs. Samuel Adams and family; Mr. and Mrs. Owen Clemans and family.

HOME CLUB HOLDS FIRST MEETING
The Home Club held the first meeting of the Fall at the home of Mrs. Albert Bickett, near Xenia, Wednesday. Topic of the program was "Vacation Trips," and was interestingly handled by Mrs. Gwendy Williamson and Mrs. E. S. Foust. The hostess served dainty refreshments and the members enjoyed a social hour. Mrs. R. E. Bryson is president of the club this year.

The only guest from a distance at the meeting was Mrs. John Meckensson, Biggsville, Ill., sister of Miss Lillie Spencer.

FORMER XENIAN TO BE MARRIED SOON
Mr. David Purdon, son of Mr. and Mrs. C. D. Purdon, 100 Galloway St., located in Toledo, will be married to Miss Violet Engle, Toledo, in that city, next Saturday. The marriage will be quietly solemnized and Mr. and Mrs. Purdon will leave immediately for the East, to spend their honeymoon.

Mr. Purdon is connected with the West Toledo Overland Co., as bookkeeper.

LEGION AUXILIARY MEMBERS ENTERTAINED
Mrs. Walter Dean entertained members of the American Legion Auxiliary at her home on W. Market St., Thursday evening, with a sewing party.

A dainty refreshment course of cake and ice cream was served by the hostess. A social time was enjoyed.

B. P. W. CLUB MEETS
First meeting of the Xenia Business and Professional Women's Club for the new year, will be held next Thursday evening at the Knights of Pythias Hall. Dinner will be served at 5:45 o'clock, followed by a program.

Allowance of bills and other matter of a routine nature was the only business transacted by the city commission at its regular meeting Thursday night.

Dr. Paul D. Espey who has been with Mrs. Espey in Ontario, Can., for several weeks, will arrive home Saturday. Mr. James Wilson, Ill., who with Mrs. Wilson were with Dr. and Mrs. Espey has returned home. Mrs. Espey and Mrs. Wilson will arrive later.

Spring Hill Parent-Teacher Association will meet at the school Monday afternoon at 3:15. Business of importance will be transacted. Every member and all people interested in P. T. A. work are urged to attend.

Dr. and Mrs. Starbuck, Port William, are announcing the birth of a ten pound son, Thursday night.

MRS. HARNER HONORS MISS WOLF THURSDAY
Surrounded by seven of her intimate friends, Miss Julia Wolf held a place of honor at the luncheon given by Mrs. Walter R. Harnar at her home on W. Church St., Thursday afternoon. Miss Wolf and her friends were seated at the dining table, with the other guests grouped about the rooms.

Lavender and yellow appointed the handsome luncheon. Elaborate appointments were used, which together with the attractive frocks worn by the guests, added to the loveliness of the occasion.

Bridge was in play after luncheon. Mrs. F. M. Torrence and Mrs. Ward M. Huston won score prizes. Miss Wolf was presented a guest prize.

The afternoon's out-of-town guests were Mrs. Katherine Denver Williams and Mrs. Denver Williams, Wilmington; Mrs. Mildred Prugh and Mrs. M. L. Wagner, Chicago; Mrs. Lawrence Laybourne, Springfield and Mrs. Virgil Schaeffer, Dayton.

XENIA GROUP TO ATTEND LUNCHEON
A group of Xenia young women who will be located at Western College for Women, Oxford, O., next year, will be guests at a luncheon given by the Miami Valley Branch of the Western Alumni Association at the Old Barn Club, Dayton, Saturday.

The Xenia group will include: the Misses Mary Ballantyne, Elizabeth Stout, Thelma Wagner, Ruth White, and Mrs. Lawrence Landaker secretary of the association; Mrs. J. J. Stout and Mrs. Emily Ninde Tremaine who will be located at Western as nurse.

Old Folks Need a Mild Laxative -Not a "Physic"

Most men and women past fifty must give to the bowels some occasional help, else they suffer from constipation. One might as well refuse to aid weak eyes with glasses as to neglect a gentle aid to weak bowels.

Is your present laxative, in whatever form, promoting natural bowel "regularity"—or must you purge and "physic" every day or two to avoid sick headache, dizziness, biliousness, colds or sour, gassy stomach?

Dr. Caldwell Syrup Pepsin helps to establish natural, regular bowel movement even for those chronically constipated. It never gripes, sickens or upsets the system. Besides, it is absolutely harmless and pleasant to take.

Just picture this attractive set of fireplace tools placed alongside a beautiful new Moore's Seventeen in your own home. And during this special sale, you get it FREE! The set consists of a shovel, poker, brush and standard. It is made of the highest grade material with black antique finish. Handles are beautifully bronzed. It stands 29 1-2 inches high. Not a novelty, but a practical, durable household help.

Correct weight can be yours be shapely!

I DO NOT want to be thin! I just want to be my right weight! I want these hollows filled out. I just want enough firm, plump flesh on my bones to fill out my figure.

Of course you do. You want a figure that you can drape your clothes on—not just hang them on! What's the use of having pretty clothes, if they just hang on you?

And what would you say if you were told you could have the figure you want? A graceful, well rounded body—firm, solid flesh—just enough—just your right weight? You'd be mighty happy, wouldn't you?

Well, then, be happy—because you can have it! Put plenty of red cells in your blood and watch your weight go up to where you want it! That's what's the matter with you! Your blood is impoverished. You need more rich, red blood. S. S. S. is the thing to put red blood in your system. S. S. S. helps Nature build red blood cells by the millions.

You just try S. S. S. and watch how quickly you begin to fill out your clothes. Notice your skin clear of unsightly blotches—your appetite increase—strength come to flabby muscles and vim and vigor fill your whole system. It's red blood that does it. And S. S. S. surely helps Nature build that red blood.

S. S. S. is sold by all drug stores. The larger bottle is more economical.

THE NEGRO ADVANCES

Slowly, but surely, the members of the negro race are advancing in ability and in contribution to the welfare of the nation. With education and better economic surroundings for each succeeding generation, they come to take a recognized place in the economic structure.

A Christian church publication recently gave a series of unusual facts about individuals of the race. These were compiled by Carter Goodwin Woodson, who received the Springfield medal recently for "ten years' services in collecting and publishing records of the negro in America." Woodson, a son of ex-slaves, is a graduate of the universities of Harvard and Chicago.

Some of the facts which are given are rarely known and are worth reproducing:

Several negroes were included among the "minute-men" of the Revolutionary War.

Crispus Attucks, negro, was one of the first four soldiers to shed blood in behalf of U. S. liberty.

A considerable number of negroes owned slaves before the Civil War.

The University of Heidelberg conferred the degree of Doctor of Divinity upon J. W. C. Pennington, Maryland ex-slave.

Josiah Henson, prototype of Uncle Tom of Uncle Tom's Cabin, was received by Queen Victoria.

Henry O. Tanner, with the white artist, Sargent, represents the best America has produced in painting.

The 370th (8th Illinois) colored regiment (officered by negroes) received more citations and croix de guerre than any other American regiment in France.

THE FIREPLACE

Those who are supplied with fireplaces in their homes feel no resentment as the chilly evenings of the early fall arrive, with their promise of colder evenings and the winter not far away. The chill of fall can be welcomed because it provides good reason for a blaze in the fireplace with the joy and good cheer possible as the fire crackles and develops, the ashes drop and the fire burns itself out.

The family gathers about the fire, as the lure is strong and there is promise of a happy hour. It is a proper place to visit, to read, or smoke, to relax and dream. The glow of the fireplace is cheerful, companionable and inviting. One may watch the curling smoke, the jets of flame, the ruddy glow and find ever a new picture always interesting.

Fireplaces are domestic, belong in the home where a family is found. The selfish man and the miser might refuse them, certainly could not hope to see their charm, glimpse the picture and feel the spell. The hour of peace, kindly contemplation and retrospection comes as the evening wears away and the fire burns low, the hour with its soothing and sweetening effect on life. Those hours come only in the home. They are for the generous, the kindly, the helpful to know and enjoy.

THE REFORMING INSTINCT

Love may be blind, but it is not stone blind. Perhaps it is near-sighted or suffers from cataracts, but see it does in its strange way.

There is the case in point of the two young things who get married. Though the world assumes they believe one another perfect, the truth is each sees in the other certain needed improvements and is secretly resolved to effect the reform.

Take the man. He promises himself that after the honeymoon is over and they settle down to the serious business of married life he will cure his darling wife of that silly giggle or of chewing gum with too great show of enterprise.

And the wife. She is laying her plans long before the wedding to cure the most perfect and yet imperfect man of those little vices which annoy her but about which she is loath to annoy him until the knot is safely tied and sealed.

Brides and bridegrooms love "as is" but they have their fingers crossed. They take each other for better, or for worse, with reservations which are effective when they are "at home to their friends."

This refining and reforming process may run smoothly if both parties to the contract possess tact and diplomacy and exercise them in bringing about those little "much-to-be-desired modifications." If one or both bluntly criticizes the other they generally "fight it out on this line if it takes all summer."

Wouldn't matrimony be a dull and monotonous experience if one could find a mate made to order! The reforming or missionary instinct is common to all men, and matrimony affords it an ideal medium of expression.

This shall be said at the last:
"Bill was a workman true
Give him a job to do,
Was it hard, was it slow or fast
He did it the best he knew
He was square, he was brave, he was kind
And he left a good name behind."

Now whether the man be rich
Or a laborer out in the sun
When the battle of life is done
It doesn't much matter which,
To this must our praises run:
"He was fair, he was true, he was kind
And he left a good name behind."

Oh, there is such a thing as fame
Such a thing as high fortune,
too;

But they fall to the very few
And man gathers his praise or blame
From the deeds he is known to do.

All we ask at the last was he kind?

Did he leave a good name behind?

So keep watch on your name, my lad,

And the task that is yours to do,
They are all that can speak for you.

If you've lived to the light you've had,

They shall say when the struggle's through:

"He was fair, he was brave he was kind,

Never in the history of Xenia was there a greater demand for workmen than at this time. The Barber Asphalt people who have the contract for paving of Second St., are employing men at $1.75 per day. Improvements are going forward at Central High School. A new lunch room has been fitted up for the pupils who stay for dinner. Skylights have been placed on the first floor. Prof. S. D. Fess formerly connected with the University of Chicago has accepted the presidency of Antioch College. He is one of the best known lecturers in the country. The work on the new Second St. P. Church is progressing rapidly now and it is thought that the building will be dedicated about Oct. 1.

ON
Greene County History

GEN. WHITEMAN'S INFLUENCE

In connection with the designation of the original boundaries of Greene County, after the line between Greene and Clark Counties was surveyed and established, one loyal and influential resident of Greene County was not at all satisfied with the arrangement.

This citizen was General Benjamin Whiteman. That part of the boundary line extending west to the line between townships four and five in the eighth range, ran somewhat to the south of the general's house which was situated on the north side of the Little Miami River, a short distance east of the present Clifton village, thus making him a resident of Clark County.

He was at that time, and had been since its organization, a prominent man in Greene County, as he had served as one of the first three associate judges of the first Common Pleas Court that had established the county government and laid it off into townships.

Since he was identified with the public interests of the county he wished to remain a resident of it. Accordingly he used his influence in the halls of the legislature which passed a bill January 25, 1819, so changing the boundary line between Greene and Clark Counties that it ran north of the general's residence, enabling him to remain a resident of this county.

DULL, DARK DAYS

I have recently experienced a week or more of dark, dull days. No sunshine. Just rain, rain, rain.

Now rain is not depressing if it is sprinkled with sunshine. But when day after day rolls along, full of darkness and rain, any one of us is apt to feel just a little gloomy, and not rise to our best. We get lonesome. We want interesting and bright folks about us and we crave companionship.

It is at such times that the cheerful person's premium rises high. For there are always those who are strong and to whom discouragement and "dull, dark days" do not come to upset and disturb. We can appreciate the fine personality best when the clouds are heavy in the sky.

Just as we can best appreciate the friend who is strong and unmoved when trouble comes. The fact is that we do not give enough credit to those who mean the most to us. We are apt to discount them until we find ourselves in the fog. Then we see their light and move their way.

The dull, dark days bring us all closer together. And they help us to understand human nature better and to live braver when the sun comes out.

From every emergency comes good. The wise mind is backed grounded with a full experience of the gifts of life—and many of these gifts have been bitter ones. But all were taken in good heart—for what each was worth.

And, after all, we gain happiness in proportion to our ability to rightly appraise the values in this life.

If we shy at trouble and try to get out of solving problems when they come to us, we are liable to experience depression and discouragement.

The dull, dark days come to us as teachers. Just bear in mind that the sun still shines right above those clouds—as though indifferent to clouds.

In the troubled heart there may be always hidden the garden of love, sweetness of spirit, and "the red badge of courage."

By Jack O'Donnell

Beppo dug for fish heads in the garbage cans along Tenth Avenue. Whelped in the cellar of a fish market in Hell's Kitchen, he was well satisfied to live the life of a small woolly dog in the tenderloin. It was pretty exciting. There was the Maltese cat in the delicatessen shop to annoy; and two or three days a week the cans contained interesting morsels—if a pup dug hard enough.

Beppo's mother was a poodle—French, but not very. Beppo's father was not a poodle—that's about all one could say for him. Beppo resembled both parents.

He was about as onery looking as any young dog could be, even on Tenth Avenue. He could catch mice, beg in one-arm joints for bits of meat, snarl at cats without getting too close, and swipe sausages from open counters. In fact, it looked as though Beppo would live and die on Tenth Avenue, just as small woolly dogs were intended to do.

And then one day Mike, the fish man, had an idea.

Soap and water, according to Mike's experience, could work profound changes on small woolly dogs. Mike and Beppo went into executive session at the family wash tub, and there emerged shortly the fluffiest little bundle of pink and white dog that ever cast despairing eyes at a cake of castle soap.

"Now," said Mike.

Half an hour later, if you had been (as I was) on the corner of Fifth Avenue and 38th Street, you would have seen a small boy appear from the the west, bearing in his arms a bundle.

He would have seen him carefully extract a cardboard FOR SALE sign from under his coat and hang it around his neck by a cord. And then you would have seen Beppo's lop-eared freshly washed head emerge from the boy's sweater.

"Oh, my dear, isn't he adorable!" gasped the seal-skin, coated dowagers and silk stockinged debutantes as they passed in a steady stream.

"The precious darling. Would 'um like to tum to the lady?" Ten minutes later a small boy walked back west. In his pockets was $40 in United States currency.

Tonight Beppo sleeps on a plush-lined divan in a $300 a year apartment on Central Park West, dreaming of fish heads and garbage cans and alley cats.

Coupon clippers and clerks down in Wall Street are getting arty. The denim smock, smacking of Greenwich Village and the life of paintbrush, poetry, and collegiate ten rooms, has been introduced to the prosaic brokers of the lower Broadway district.

Nowadays when a stock speculator gazes into a ticker and watches his fortune go sailing through the roof, he wrings his hands and tears his * * * not his double-breasted blue serge * * * nay, his three dollar blue smock.

The real sirens of the screen are worse than they're painted! The Pola Negris, the Nita Naldis, the Lya de Puttis and the Dagmar Godowskys are generally accepted as the real "wicked women." But the more quiet types make their share of conquests.

Directors must beg Lillian Gish to be kissed. Sex appeal is not in her line. But what vamp can match the list of her conquests? Lois Wilson follows that line of least resistance, "if I can't be a sweetheart I'll be a sister to you," and gets em. Constance Talmadge is the "good sport" type and appeals to many hearts.

Agnes Smith in "Photoplay," declares that if a national vote were taken, the Lillian Gishes, Lois Wilsons, Irene Riches and other varieties of sweet womanhood would come out on top, as the real vamps.

At an early age, Lillian learned that Art is Imagination. And it happens also that Sex Appeal is much the same thing. And Lillian is getting $8,000 a week holding on to her sweet femininity after she wrecked the fortunes of D. W. Griffith and Charles Duell, who made her what she is today, and incidentally Duell's heart, it is said.

And Lois Wilson—she's just a good friend to the men she knows. That's her fatal quality. They say Lois would marry Richard Dix tomorrow, but Dix looks on her just as a good friend. A young millionnaire of one of the most respected families in America is willing to marry Lois any day she says. But Lois says she's just a friend. Take the list of her conquests? Lois Wilson follows that line of least resistance, "if I can't be a sweetheart I'll be a sister to you," and gets em. Constance Talmadge is the "good sport" type and appeals to many hearts.

When Raquel Meller left Hollywood she faithfully promised Charlie Chaplin that she would return and play "Josephine" to his "Napoleon." Neither Charlie nor Raquel will take any salary during the making of the picture. But Charlie and Senorita will share in the profits of the film. If there are no profits, it will be written off as a glorious experiment and the satisfying of a long desire of Charlie's. Meller was none too successful in French films.

She Bared Her Soul!

To the man whose kindly tolerance and sympathy have put thousands back on the road to happiness

AND she was one of hundreds who have done the same—told secrets she would not tell her mother—or perhaps her husband—but in the confession of the Judge's chambers she revealed all. Her story and those of scores of others—men as well as women—are now being retold for society's good in

"The Moral Revolt" by Judge Ben B. Lindsey

Judge of the Family Court of Denver

This is the most candid and startling series of articles ever published in any magazine. Reasoning from the stories of real life told him in court day after day, Judge Lindsey has reached certain conclusions, and now he boldly asks: "Is a new code of sex morals being created?" It is a startling question—but a question that has heretofore existed unasked in the minds of all intelligent men and women; and it is no more startling than the evidence that Judge Lindsey offers in his great series of articles entitled: "The Moral Revolt."

When you have read the first of the Judge's articles and considered it, turn a few pages of the same magazine and read the first article in another astonishing series in which the internationally famous beauty and social leader—

Mrs. Philip Lydig Reveals Secrets of New York Society

ALMOST since girlhood, beautiful Mrs. Philip Lydig has been an unquestioned leader of New York's ultra-smart society. Now for the first time Mrs. Lydig proceeds to turn the spotlight on that society—telling in great detail why she finds it futile, false and corrupt. The statements she makes will astonish you—story after story of other distinguished novelists and story-writers: Ruth Comfort Mitchell, James Francis Dwyer, Struthers Burt, Samuel Marwin, Leroy Scott, Thyrza Samer Winslow, Robert Benchley, Wm. # Humbled Reds Meet Pittsburgh Nine

While the Cardinals were enraging the lowly Beane Friday with every chance of increasing their lead, the Reds were taking on the Pittsburgh Pirate at Pittsburgh in another double header.

Wednesday the Pirates smacked the Reds for a double loss, thereby seriously impairing the pennant chances of the Hendricksmen and a double redemption on the part of the Reds now would put them back in the race where they were before going East.

The Reds gained ever so slightly and the Cards fared well Thursday while both were idle, because the Chicago Cubs divided a double header with the Pirates. Percy Jones lost a pitcher's duel to Joe Bush in the initial contest while Kaufman was complete master of the Bucs while his mates slaughtered Yde, Koupal and Mahaffey in the second contest. The scores were 2 to 1 and 10 to 1.

New York and Brooklyn were idle Friday while the Cardinals played Boston. Chicago met Philadelphia and the Reds met the Pirates. If Boston is as formidable against the Cards as it was against the Reds on their last Eastern invasion, there is hope for the second-placers.

The Reds on August 11 were farther from the top than they are now and apparently in a serious slump that was about to remove them bodily from the race. On that date, however, they went out and manufactured the 1926 run record off Philadelphia and then won ten straight to put them back in the running. While they are badly battered now, they still have a chance for a fast finish and the pennant which is better than no chance at all.

BOY SCOUTS CLAIM SOFT BALL TITLE AFTER VICTORY THURSDAY

Boy Scouts claimed the city soft ball championship Friday after defeating the Junior Business Men's Club 12 to 11 at Cox Memorial Athletic Field Thursday afternoon in a six inning game.

A sixth inning rally, in which the Scouts came from behind to overcome a three run lead and obtain the extra winning marker, featured the championship clash. While business men hope to redeem themselves in a future game, Scouts believe the title is decided and no further games are necessary.

"Bunny" Purdom pitched for the business men, with Eavey catching, and his slants were no puzzle to the Scouts, who smashed the agate with a will to all corners of the lot. Purdom remained in the box, however, and served the opponents delectable shoots which they massaged with abandon. In the meantime, Stout, who relieved Hurley in the box for the Scouts, pitched invincibly, striking out the majority of the enemy that faced him.

Crawford umpired the contest with considerable eclat.

The accident occurred, it was said, when the bus crashed into an automobile at a crossing.

AMERICA LEADS IN MATHEMATICS

COLUMBUS, O., Sept. 10.—America leads the world in mathematics, Prof. Arnold Dresden, of the University of Wisconsin, who is attending the two-day session of the American Mathematical society here, declared today. Thirty-five years ago, America had no standing in mathematics, Dresden said. More than 150 mathematicians from all parts of the country are attending the meeting here.

SCHOOLS OPEN
COLUMBUS, O., Sept. 10.—Enrollment in Columbus public schools today stood at 37,527.

Over two billion
smoked a month!
—it's clear enough what smokers want!

Real delicacy of aroma, but without loss of natural tobacco taste and character

THAT'S what smokers want—and what's more, they know just where to get it.

Witness Chesterfield's remarkable record; for four years' running, America's fastest-growing cigarette.

Chesterfield offers "natural tobacco taste" at its mild and mellow best, just the natural leaf sweetness of fine tobaccos put together right—and "judged by results," that's just what smokers want.

"Not Possible To Classify"

By Mack Sauer

COLUMBUS—A few jottings of the day by Samuel Pepys.
Jr.—The fire engines and trolleys kept up such a mighty clanging that I slept little, tossing about restlessly. Up at daybreak and to the state house yard to join the farmers feeding the squirrels.

Bought a pen for my wife's anniversary present, which I intend to use for myself.

Great sport standing on the street corners watching the farmers paying no heed to the traffic lights and saw one woman get run down, but not hurt. But a delight to me to see the beauties go by when the breeze is blowing which it often does here.

Met "Chob" Slisson, Gov. Donahoe's special investigator, with whom I chummed in my boyhood, and made plans to see
Vic ere long and I mean to tell him Xenia is strong for Myers
Y. Cooper. Heard a tale about a fellow saying he was in prison because of the unlucky number 13, meaning twelve hours and one judge. Came a chance to see three men electrocuted in the penitentiary, but I fringed that I might faint.

In the late evening to a movie where two flappers jabbered so much that I up and told them to talk louder, as I could only hear half they were saying above the music. And so late to my room and to bed with prayers.

WHEW!

A skunk family
Was attacked one day
The mother skunk
Said, "Let us spray."

POLICE FISH BOOZE FROM RAIN BARRELL

A convenient rain water barrel concealed for only a short time seven half pints of moonshine liquor after Mrs. Earl Cline, 12 Charles St., dropped a paper sack containing the booze into its depths at 2 o'clock, Friday morning, according to police.

While Patrolman George Robinson pursued her, the young woman fled around the home of the next door neighbor, and appeared in the front minus sack she had carried. She made her escape through the alleys, and the officer returned and fished the booze out of the rain barrel.

In the meantime, Patrolman Charles Thompson was holding the woman's husband at the front of the house. He was locked up on a bootlegging charge. An additional half pint of liquor was found in the rear seat of the Cline car. Mr. and Mrs. Cline drove up in front of their home about the time the officers in the police car appeared. Mrs. Cline seized the sack, which police say contained the booze, and fled.

LARGE ENROLLMENT IS INDICATED FROM COUNTY AT CENTRAL

Indications point to an increased enrollment in Central High School this year, according to Principal Spencer Shank. This is accounted for by Principal Shank, by the fact that the percentage of pupils entering the local school from the rural districts is unusually high. "This may be offset, however," said the principal "by a decreased enrollment from the city."

Student grouping in home rooms by sex in the junior and senior high schools is an innovation to be adopted this year. Boys and girls will be placed separately in the home rooms. Students can be cared for better under this plan, Principal Shank says. By this method matters pertaining to boys alone and girls alone can be placed before the students to better advantage than when mixed groups were placed in the home rooms.

The second of the regular convocation assemblies marking the opening of the school year will be held in the auditorium of Central High School next Friday afternoon at 1:30 and will be open to the public with an invitation extended to all patrons to attend. The Rev. H. B. McElree, pastor of the Second Presbyterian Church, will be the speaker.

The opening schedule for the year indicates a tendency toward the commercial course upon the part of an unusually large number of pupils, Principal Shank says. The students enrolled for the agricultural course, and those who will take the college course, are about the same as last year.

Virtually all the teachers on the high school faculty have returned from their vacations or summer work and are ready to begin their duties, Principal Shank says.

MRS. CATHERINE S. BREEN DIES HERE

Mrs. Catherine Sullivan Breen, 68, widow of Daniel Breen, and a resident of Xenia forty-three years, died at 10:20 Thursday night at her home 238 W. Second St. She had been bedfast for a year, and her condition became suddenly worse Tuesday night.

Mrs. Breen was born in Ireland, immigrating to this country when she was a young woman and had been a resident of Greene County for about seventy years. Her home was in Spring Valley before the family came to Xenia.

Mrs. Breen is survived by four daughters: Mrs. Mary Dwyer of Springfield; Mrs. D. J. Hollen-camp, Xenia; Mrs. William F. Brennan, Dayton and Mrs. James Killeen, with whom she lived.

POWER COMPANY HAS NEW BILLING PLANS

Changes in the billing system by which there will be twenty-one different discount days to eliminate office congestion caused with only one discount day will be placed in effect next month by The Dayton Power and Light Co., at its Xenia office 37 S. Detroit St. E. H. Heathman, manager, announces.

Xenia has been divided into ten districts and the county into eleven districts and each district will be billed separately and the last discount day available on different days as a means of avoiding the monthly discount day congestion under the present system.

Electric billing machinery will also replace the hand billing method now employed in order to facilitate the billing work. The system, which is similar to that used in large Eastern cities, will become effective with the meter readings in September and is expected to add to convenience of patrons.

A large and interesting group of relatives and friends were present from Wilberforce, Xenia, Jamestown, Dayton, Springfield, Columbus, Yellow Springs, Richmond, Ind., and Texas. At noon a bountiful dinner was served under a large tent, which added much to the pleasure and accommodation of all present. A splendid program was listed to as follows: A welcome song to relatives which concluded with "The Prison Song" by Marie and Opal Nickens of Richmond, Ind.; greeting by little Carmel Bramlette, great grandson of the late T. J. Pearson of Jamestown; talk by Dr. H. R. Hawkins, of Xenia; Family History, Mrs. Lucy Pearson Bramlette of Xenia; Song, "America," talk on army life by Serg. Albert Thomas of Xenia; closing remarks by Rev. Hutchison and Rev. Howe of Xenia.

The next reunion will be at Bryan Park, Yellow Springs, O. Officers for next year are president, Mrs. Lucy Bramlette, secretary, Mrs. Julia Jones; treasurer, Mrs. Nellie Cordell; committee on arrangements, Messrs. Frank Hamilton, Jonah Evans, Geo. Hull, Chas. Cordell and Henry Ross.

Mrs. Maud Hood of Columbus, O., was the guest of Mrs. L. K. Bramlette for a few days this week leaving Thursday for Jamestown for a visit before returning to her home.

WARMER WEATHER KILLS THREAT AGAINST CORN BY MERCURY DROP

With the thermometer falling to about ten degrees above freezing point Thursday night, farmers with late corn began to worry for fear early frosts would catch and damage their crops.

Even a light frost would stop the growth of the corn before it had hardened sufficiently to begin curing, and the consequences would be a chaffy and immature crop. Weather reports Friday indicated a rising temperature, however, and fears of frost for the present were allayed.

Corn that was planted early throughout the county is beginning to cure, and silos are being filled, according to County Agent

J. R. Kimber. Husks are beginning to turn yellow on the early crop.

The late crop is still green, but is earing up nicely and if frosts hold off for about four weeks longer it will be in fine condition, according to Mr. Kimber.

Some corn in lowlands where the water stood during the heavy rains and other corn blown down by storms, was damaged by the rainy weather but generally, Greene County corn escaped much damage from the storms, according to Mr. Kimber.

Oats and hay were the chief sufferers from the rainy weather. There was considerable loss on wheat in scattered places over the

PHYSICIANS FIGURE IN TWO ACCIDENTS

Two Xenia physicians figured in motor accidents the past week. Dr. Frank M. Chambliss, Messenger Building, had his coupe badly damaged when the automobile was struck by the machine driven by J. R. Anderson, 719 W. Second St., Wednesday.

Both motorists were driving west on Second. Mr. Anderson attempted to make a sudden turn and the cars collided. Neither driver was hurt. The automobile owned and driven by Dr. D. E. Spahr, Springfield

Pike, was damaged in a head-on collision with the automobile driven by Mrs. Frank Willett, two miles north of Xenia on the Springfield Pike, Thursday afternoon.

Mrs. Willett was driving south and Dr. Spahr north, when Mrs. Willett tried to pass a wagon. She failed to notice the approach of the Spahr car and both were badly damaged.

The Willett car was occupied by Mrs. Willett, Mrs. Owen Swadener and five children. No one was hurt.

HELP YOURSELF TO HEALTH

Jealous Women

YOU can't blame them. Beauty and health are given but they are difficult to keep. No wonder women guard them jealously. No wonder their mirrors reveal the furtive glances of the afraid. It is too bad that women do not realize that constipation's ruinous poisons undermine health, destroy beauty, sap vitality and sicken with headaches. But thank goodness, beauty and health may be safeguarded by safely, surely and permanently relieving constipation with Kellogg's ALL-BRAN.

No matter if constipation has become chronic, Kellogg's ALL-BRAN will bring permanent relief. This is why: ALL-BRAN journeys through the body unchanged in fiber. It is what doctors call a bulk food. It is 100% bran and brings 100% results. As Kellogg's ALL-BRAN sweeps through the intestine, it cleans and purifies—stimulates the flow of digestive juices—absorbs and carries moisture. It causes a lagard intestine to function as nature intended.

That's the splendid thing about the action of Kellogg's ALL-BRAN—it promotes natural, healthy and regular elimination. Eat two tablespoonfuls of Kellogg's ALL-BRAN every day—in chronic cases, with every meal. If eaten regularly, it is guaranteed to bring permanent relief or the grocer returns the purchase price. Its delightful nutty flavor makes it good as a cereal. Serve with milk or cream alone, or with fresh or preserved fruit—sprinkle over other cereals; cook with hot cereals; use in soups, or in the recipes on the package. Be sure you get Kellogg's ALL-BRAN. Don't accept a part-bran product, for it cannot do a whole-bran job. Chances are, it will do no good at all. Don't take chances. All grocers sell Kellogg's ALL-BRAN. Leading hotels and restaurants serve it.

It's A Great World!

Wednesday afternoon I turned to Harold one of my assistants and told him to take a couple hours off—go out on the highways down town here and FIND OUT WHAT PEOPLE WERE TALKING ABOUT!

Harold looked puzzled but after a bit put on his hat and stepped out as directed. He came back later and laid the following report on my desk. As it read sort of surprising to me I thought I'd print PART of it here. If you have time you might read it. Tisn't painful.

TWO MIDDLE AGED WOMEN: "Aren't children IMPOSSIBLE these days?"

THREE YOUTHS: "He promised to let me have a gallon when it got in and a gallon will make NINE QUARTS by golly!"

COUPLE OF FLAPPERS: "I think Michael Arien is just simply marvelous, I really MEAN it—awfully SMART don't you think?"

THREE CAREFUL BUSINESS MEN: "It don't make a bit of difference whether you use ONE cake of yeast or three cakes—you get exactly the SAME result!"

TWO MEN (not classified): "Business will NEVER come back to what it was. The auto has simply RUINED this country."

IN A CIGAR STORE: "No champion EVER came back who laid off as long as Dempsey. Can't be done."

PLUMP MAN IN A DEPARTMENT STORE: "I'm NOT going to wear NO corset no matter WHAT the style is."

HORRIFIED OLD LADY: "My dear I'm telling you she had n't a THING on except just one of these silly silk things."

There were five other reports but they were too exciting to stand the day light on a cold dignified page like this—so they're omitted. No one said anything FOR or AGAINST the drug stores so maybe I'm lucky to be left out! Further there's no "moral" to this yarn and no lesson to be learned or taught. It's just a little slice of things AS THEY ARE.

GIFTS FOR THE TABERNACLE
GOLDEN TEXT: Honor Jehovah with thy substance and with the first fruits of all thy increase. Proverbs 3; TIMELINE: Some time in the latter half of the year beginning in March, B. C. 1498. PLACE: Still in the Sinai region.

LESSON TEXT: Exodus 35:20-29. And all the congregation of the children of Israel departed from the presence of Moses.

And they came, every one whose heart stirred him up, and every one whom his spirit made willing, and brought Jehovah's offering, for the work of the tent of meeting, and for all service thereof, and for the holy garments.

And when came, both men and women, as many as were willing hearted, and brought brooches, and ear rings, and signet-rings, and armlets, all jewels of gold; even every man that offered an offering of gold unto Jehovah.

And every man, with whom was found blue, and purple, and scarlet, and fine linen and goats' hair, and rams' skin dyed red, and sealskins, brought them.

Every one that did offer an offering of silver and brass brought Jehovah's offering; and every man with whom was found acacia wood for any work of the service, brought it.

And all the women that were wise-hearted did spin with their hands, and brought that which they had spun, the blue, and the purple, the scarlet, and the fine linen.

And all the women whose heart stirred them up in wisdom spun goats' hair.

And the rulers brought the onyx stones, and the stones to be set for the ephod, and for the breastplate.

And the spice, and the oil, for the light, and for the anointing oil, and for the sweet incense.

The children of Israel brought a free-will-offering unto Jehovah; every man and woman, whose heart made them willing to bring for all the work, which Jehovah had commanded to be made by Moses.

INTRODUCTION: The latter part of the Book of Exodus relates to the tent of worship which served as their temple, synagogue and represents the church today which we enjoy, as a place of worship to God. Again as well as Jewish and Christian nations have rightly made their places of worship places of beauty and splendor, which points to holiness, but one must not think that building the fine structure or tent of worship is sufficient for replacing holiness. Our lesson today is on giving and this is an important side of the question of religion. God's grace is free, but in this day and age it is absolutely necessary to use money and other things of value in order to enjoy and distribute His grace and plans.

1. AROUSED MINDS AND HEARTS: In our lesson text we are told that those whose hearts were stirred up and had willing hearts came and gave beautiful and costly gems, cloth, wool, etc., for the making of the tent of worship. That is the secret heart and a willing spirit. We discount a tightwad and naturally God loves a cheerful giver. If our minds realize as they should and our hearts appreciate what God has done for us, our hearts will be stirred and our spirits willing to give liberally to God as a thank offering for His blessings.

2. EVERY ONE: Each and every one that had felt their obligation to give to God's cause came and gave something. They were enthusiastic about this popular movement of giving. We must not be misled and think that this money matter is an injected business matter, but rather we must realize that it is a very vital and important issue. The Bible tells of the widow's mite and this points us to the fact that we cannot all give in the same degree and measure but we can all give to some degree and measure. Children should be taught early in life to give unto God that which is God's. If each and everyone gave what a simple matter it would be to finance God's work and rescue His children.

3. GIFTS FROM HIS OWN LABOR: Having come out of slavery we naturally realize that this people had very little money in their possession and in fact they had no use for money because God was caring for and feeding them here on their long journey. But they brought the goods raised and made with their own hands and with their skill. The men brought their goats' hair and rams' skins dyed red and seal skins and the women spun with their hands. There is a close connection between worship and giving. Money is a standard by which we measure our gifts to Jehovah. We must give grace to the degree and with the spirit of the widow when she threw her mite.

4. SYSTEMATIC GIVING: Haphazard giving is inefficient. Giving should be done as we conduct our house and business matters. System is most essential in every line of business and should be considered just as much so in our giving to the Church and to the moral and community causes. We could have more joy and the gospel could be spread more rapidly if all gave more systematically.

5. JOY WITH LIBERALITY: Our lesson text informs us that the Hebrews gave liberally and joyfully. Do you think that giving is a duty or debt, rather than a privilege and delight. As an expression of gladness the Hebrews blew their silver trumpets and they made their offering and therefore we should rejoice in the spirit as we help spread the gospel and Christ's teachings, locally and around the world.

MILLIONS FROM DIMES: There is a limit to what one man can earn with his own brain and hands. Big fortunes come from making others, or your money, to work for you. Twenty dollars a day in wages is not equal to having three hundred employees each earn ten cents a day for you. Recently a man gave $25,000,000 to welfare endowment fund. Those millions were gathered from profits on the myriad purchases in his five and ten cent stores.

The advice to would-be Rockefeller and Fords is clear. However, we may not all have others working for us. This would be like living by taking on one another's washing. Most of us will always have to work for someone else. The thing is that we should get a fair share of what we help to build and earn.

BIBLE STORY
"Joseph is long since dead, and now Simeon is as good as dead, and you want to take Benjamin from me." And even though Reuben offered to leave his own two sons, as a pledge for the return of Benjamin, the old man would not listen to him. Yet still the famine grew sorer, and Jacob had to face the matter once more. For when he asked his sons to go into Egypt again for corn, Judah replied that they dare not go without Benjamin. He himself, he said, would answer for Benjamin's safety; but without him, he would not go. Only by Jacob's advice they carried a special present for the viceroy and double money with them, in case the money returned on their last journey should have been a mistake. And in due time they came to Egypt, and were brought before Joseph.

Now when Joseph saw Benjamin, he knew that his brothers had been true to their word, and he longed to be kind to them. Only in the joy of his heart, he would have it all come about in his own way, and at his own time, and in such fashion so as to take them unawares. So he summoned them to dine with him in his great house; but when these country bred strangers were brought into such a home they were terrified, and thought that the viceroy meant to make slaves of them. Therefore they spoke to Joseph's house steward, and told him all about the money, and how they had brought double money to pay all the debt. Then, he knowing what was in his master's mind, spoke comfort to them, and brought Simeon back to them out of the prison; and at last they came to Joseph's dining room, and gave him, bowing low, the present they had brought.

The Joseph asked after the welfare of the old man, their father, and seeing Benjamin, he said, "Is this the younger brother of whom you spoke to me?" And turning to Benjamin he said: "God be gracious to thee, my son." But he could say no more, for his heart was full, and he had to take himself into another room and weep in secret. When he had mastered his feelings he came back, and the brothers all dined before him; but he dined at a separate table, because being as they believed, an Egyptian, he could not eat beside a Hebrew with his defiled. Then as they sat at meat, Joseph, as a special mark of grace, sent food from his own table to them all, but even so, he could not help show his greater love for his own brother, Benjamin, for he sent him five times as much as to the others. Thus they all feasted and forgot their fears.

BRIEFLY TOLD

The Lowest Known Temperature is 269.5 degrees below zero—the temperature of liquid oxygen. One of the earliest attempts at blood transfusion took place in the 14th Century when an effort was made to prolong the life of Pope Innocent VIII. The attempt failed, and the youths who gave their blood died from their sacrifices.

FIFTEEN GIRLS IN FINALS OF ANNUAL BEAUTY PAGEANT

ATLANTIC CITY, N. J., Sept. 10.—Fifteen girls, mostly brunettes and blue eyed, but all excited, today awaited the decision of fifteen stern male judges that by night will make one of them "Miss America" of 1926.

They are the five survivors from each division in the preliminary eliminations of the Atlantic City beauty contest.

The popular belief that gentlemen prefer blondes is belied by the fact that ten have dark tresses. Most of them are blue eyed and they are well matched in height.

The second severe test came this morning when the judges met, with the public barred and cut the list to five. This afternoon it will be cut to two.

Tonight on the million dollar pier will come the climax. With Miss America of 1925 (Miss Fay LaPlante) and Miss Atlantic City (Miss Eleanor Hoffman) on gold-thrones, a huge golden apple will be brought in.

In the apple will be the names of the two survivors. Miss Atlantic City will cut the apples and the names will be brought out. Then the judges will vote, one by one. When one contestant has eight votes, she will be crowned Miss America of 1926.

SCHOOL WILL START AT 8:25 O'CLOCK

Elementary grades of Xenia City will start Monday morning at 8:25 instead of 8:15, as previously announced. Superintendent H. C. Pendry further disclosed Thursday.

Simplifying the announcement of Wednesday, he said Orient Hill fifth and sixth grades will be transferred to Spring Hill and McKinley. There will be some transferring done in the fifth and sixth grades in McKinley and Spring Hill Schools to make the proper adjustment.

MINISTERS MEET

COLUMBUS, O., Sept. 10.—More than fifty laymen and ministers of Columbus M. E. churches will attend the 150th annual meeting of the Ohio Conference of the Methodist Episcopal Church, convening in Gallipolis, next Tuesday. The meetings will continue until September 20, when assignments of ministers will be announced.

LENDERS WILL MEET SOON IN CLEVELAND

CLEVELAND, Ohio, Sept. 10.—More than 300 men from all sections of the United States, representing an investment of millions of dollars, will gather in Cleveland September 14-17 for the annual convention of the Ohio Industrial Lenders Association. Industrial lenders loan money on chattels. Virtually every large city in the United States will have a delegate in the national convention. The State association is to hold its session the first day of the gathering. Headquarters will be in the Statler Hotel.

Members of the Ohio association will act as hosts at a luncheon to be given on September 15. Thos. L. Pearson, secretary of Y. M. C. A. Lima, Ohio, will deliver an address.

Col. D. H. Pond, Cleveland, president of the Ohio Industrial Lenders Association will preside at a banquet to be given the evening of September 16. Speakers will include Cyrus Koehler, director, state department of commerce, Columbus; Congressman James T. Berg, Sandusky; Common Pleas Judge James B. Ruhl, Cleveland; and Mayor R. D. Marshall, Cleveland. The banquet will be followed by dancing.

Every industrial leader in Ohio is to act as a member of the general reaction committee. Many ladies are expected to attend and a program has been arranged for them.

THREE COWS KILLED BY MILK SICKNESS

Three purebred Shorthorn cows, a calf and one horse, belonging to Rea Chenoweth, grain dealer and farm owner of London, died recently from what is known as "trembles" or milk sickness, dreaded disease of pioneer days.

It is thought by Dr. J. C. Hunt, veterinarian, who treated the animals at the Chenoweth farm on the old Xenia road, three miles southwest of London, that the continued wet weather has caused prevalence of the tremble weed, eating of which is believed to cause the disease.

Eight or ten years ago a mother and two children died on a farm near London of what was pronounced milk sickness. The disease also caused the deaths of considerable livestock near London a number of years ago.

PINCHED BABY AND ESCAPES BURGLAR

NEW LEXINGTON, O., Sept. 10.—By pinching her baby and making it cry, Mrs. W. P. Shaw outwitted a burglar who covered her with a revolver and threatened her life at her home here last night. Awakened at midnight by the burglar Mrs. Shaw pinched her infant who responded with lugy yells. Making an excuse to put it in a cradle, Mrs. Shaw rushed out to a neighbor for help.

The Gilded Rose

By May Christie

WHO'S WHO IN THE STORY:

ROSILYN RIDGEWAY—Learns on her wedding day from idle gossip that she has been married for her money. Before her enormous fortune was left her, she had been an over-worked little drudge in her father's inn.

LANDIS RIDGEWAY, her husband is a brilliant, fascinating man, who was forced into the marriage by his mother, Rosilyn, loving her husband, known to all in love with LYDIA HARDBROOK, a beautiful, cold society girl who is bent on marrying Landis.

STEVE VAN VORST, is a wealthy old roue, friendly with ROBERT BRISCOE, a dissipated man of the world, has been Rosilyn but once, and yet is deeply interested in her. Lydia learns of this interest, and she and Briscoe concoct a plot whereby Rosilyn and Briscoe will see a great deal of each other, and Lydia will have a chance to exert her wiles upon Landis. The plan works, and Landis, finding himself often alone with Lydia falls under her spell once more.

Van Vorst, however, hungering for her love, decides to use MARIETTA FERNANDEZ, a dancer and sweetheart of Briscoe's in connection with a scheme. These two come to New York where Marietta begins to vamp Landis away from Lydia, leaving a clear field for the elderly schemer.

In the country at the Ridgeway place, Rosilyn, in a fever of jealousy and anxiety over the protracted disappearance of her husband seeks the solace of the countryside. After an exciting adventure she is rescued by Briscoe who tells a "fishy" story to account for his proximity to the scene. Soon after Landis effects a reconciliation with Rosilyn and becomes his old lovable self, in the city meanwhile Marietta feels her power over Briscoe declining and commits suicide.

Lydia then urges Briscoe to compromise Rosilyn so as to give herself more power over Landis.

Chapter 69

A RENDEZVOUS

Driving back to the inn on the marshes Rosilyn meets with an accident—while in town her husband discuses the coroner's inquest of Marietta's death.

"Briscoe was censured at the inquest," continued the young man briefly. "There were callous letters he had written—and then the girl's parting message to him—"

"And you mean that he has been trying to influence Rosilyn?" Mrs. Ridgeway's face was anxious. "I thought he was making himself rather conspicuous in dancing attendance on her—but you were away so much—and she is young and ignorant—that cliff adventure seemed odd, though I'd trust Rosilyn's integrity to the uttermost."

Her son's face had a shamed look.

"I've been a fool. And worse. I see that now, when it's maybe too late. I—oh, it's difficult to express—but I'm fond of her—I'm not nearly good enough for a girl like Rosilyn—if I only I had a second chance—"

The mother's heart leapt with a new hope.

"And Lydia Harbrook?" Her voice was gentle and sympathetic now. "Is all that over and done with, Landis? Rosilyn is worth a hundred Lydias."

"I know she is. I've been blind as a bat. She can't respect me."

"She loves you, Landis. You've made her suffer, but I know she loves you still. And she has a splendid, a noble nature. She could have ruined Lydia Harbrook, but she wouldn't stoop to such a thing."

"I don't quite understand." The young man had a puzzled air.

Mrs. Ridgeway hesitated, then she said:

"It will be a shock to you to hear that Lydia drugs. A syringe was found in her bedroom, and then cocaine. It was cocaine, because I took the packet to the drug-store, and the druggist proved it was. Besides, have you ever noticed the tiny marks on Lydia's arms? Have you ever wondered at her unflinching gaiety, when gaiety is an asset? Have you ever marked the uncanny brilliance of her eyes, and the way she looks at one and almost through one, at certain times? Then her reactions? Lydia can go as flat as a prickled balloon. And she seems to be losing the ethical distinction between right and wrong."

Landis was stunned.

"Lydia—drugs? It's unbelievable!"

Mrs. Ridgeway said:

"Rosilyn discovered her in the very act. But it was not till I myself found out, that the child even admitted the truth about Lydia. It was noble, though mistaken, of Rosilyn to shield her, considering that Lydia's manner towards the child, and Lydia's appropriation of yourself, and Lydia's insolence, have been unbearable."

Landis almost groaned aloud, in heaviness of spirit.

The deed was done now. Rosilyn his girl-wife—gone!

"Have you no idea of her whereabouts, mother? I'd take the car at once."

"She merely stated in her note, which arrived this morning, that she had gone off with old Annie for a holiday somewhere, and would send her address later. I've a conviction, Landis, that the child is wounded to the heart, and like all hurt creatures, wants to hide herself for a while. I don't blame her."

"No do I. I only blame myself. And—"

"With sudden heat 'I blame that swine Briscoe. He's turned her against me. He's—"

"Steady. Be honest, Landis. Wasn't your own behaviour sufficient in itself to change Rosilyn towards you, if it were possible she should be changed? She's staunch and loyal and sincere."

"But she's ignorant of the world—and trading. And a man like Briscoe—"

"Then get after Briscoe. Not that you can possibly think he's with Rosilyn."

"He's capable of anything. The inquest sort of woke me up to the fact that I've tolerated men about the place I never ought to have introduced either to you or Rosilyn! I've been d—d careless and selfish."

His mother touched him on the arm with a gesture of affection that was rare in her.

"Come, come, Landis! It isn't too late yet!"

Like a man possessed, he strode out of the house so beautifully decorated with his wife's money, following a blind instinct that might lead him to her.

In the lobby of Lydia's hotel he faced the erstwhile charmer.

"Don't snap my head off, Landis! I've nothing to do with this affair! Surely you're capable of looking after your own wife yourself, without trying to rope me in as nursemaid!" And Lydia's lips curled insolently.

He glared at her in wrath. Was this cold, callous creature the warm, flesh-and-blood woman he had once loved madly?

But the spell was broken now. The scales were lifted from his eyes, and he saw her in true colors.

"Have you any idea where Rosilyn is?" he rapped out like a pistol shot.

Lydia put her two hands to her ears in pretended dismay.

"Don't shout at me!" Then she added, with malice:

"Maybe I've a fair idea where your wife is, maybe I've more than a fair idea that she's not alone!"

"Speak out! But don't insult her!"

"S—sh! Don't create a scene! Where are your manners?"

"Manners be blown! What do you know? Out with it!"

Lydia led him to a more secluded corner, and proceeded, with maddening deliberation, to light a cigarette.

He refused one, watching her with an almost positive dislike. The reaction against her influence had been absolute. She realized it.

She would hurt him all she could.

"I won't beat about the bush. But don't murder me! It's Rupert Briscoe you ought to get after! He's the snake in the grass, if you only knew it."

"Well?" Landis hands were trembling, as though he yearned to get them on Briscoe's throat. Lydia lowered her voice discreetly.

"I'm not supposed to know much about it, but from something Rupert said only a day or so ago, he's more than a little bit interested in your wife. And I'm afraid, strange as it may seem to a husband of your charm! (though of course these fascinations have not been levelled much in her direction, have they?) that your wife reciprocates Briscoe's interest."

"You lie!" said Landis, in her very face. "You lie."

Lydia laughed shrilly. She rose. "Go down to the marshland inn, you fool, and you'll find them both together there! Then give me the lie direct again! I know what I know, and your precious wife is—"

But Landis, like a man determined, had traversed the lounge in two strides to the exit, and was gone.

TOMORROW: "She's Dead."

LEADING EDUCATOR VICTIM OF ILLNESS OF YEAR'S DURATION

Bierce, a woman of high literary attainments, and a writer for many magazines, who survives him.

Dr. Scarborough was long a contributor to the press of his country, including the leading magazines. He was since 1893 the exegetical editor of the A. M. E. Church Sunday School publications. He was a member of a number of learned societies: American Philological, American Dialect, American Social Science, Archaeological Institute of America, American Spelling Reform, American Folklore, American Modern Language, American Political and Social Science, the Egyptian Exploration Fund Association, National Geographical Society, American Negro Academy, The American Japan Society, New York Academy of Science and Affiliated Societies, the Society for the Encouragement of Arts, Manufactures and Commerce, London, England, a society founded more than two hundred years ago. He had several times been one of the invited orators at the Lincoln League Banquet of the State of Ohio. He was appointed by the Governor of Ohio a delegate to the National Conference in St. Louis in the interest of Negro Education. He was the only Negro representative on the board of the Lincoln Memorial Association of Ohio, which is presided over by the governor.

During the war he was a member of the Food Commission for the State of Ohio and was also appointed by the governor of the State as a member of the National Council of Defence. He also assisted in looking after colored labor in Ohio to the end of adding in War movements. He was a member of the Republican Advisory Committee of Ohio.

As War president of Wilberforce he obtained the Students' Army Training Corps for the University, sustained by the U. S. Government and later obtained the Reserve Officers' Training Corps at the University, which institution sent large contingents of students to the training camps and over seas.

He was a delegate to the Ecumenical Methodist Conference in London in 1901, representing the African Methodist Episcopal Church, and was in attendance upon the Universal Race Congress in London (1911), representing Wilberforce University of which he was president. He was appointed delegate to the Ecumenical Conference held in London, England, September 2 to 16, 1921. He also attended the meeting of the International Classical Association at Cambridge University, Cambridge, England, August 2 to 5, 1921, as one of the representatives of the American Philological Association.

His interests were varied. He was well known locally, nationally and internationally. He was an outstanding figure in Ohio politics for years, and was appointed by President Harding as Assistant in Farm Studies in the U. S. Dept. of Agriculture, in 1921 holding this position until the year following the President's death.

He lived a wide and useful life, interested in all things tending to advance the race and humanity. He was a caretaking, loving son and husband; a cultured, courteous Christian gentleman, and an inspiring teacher. He was beloved by thousands of pupils whose lives he has helped to form and to whom he has always known as "the students' friend." The work he did, the life he lived, example will not die, but its influence will be felt and go infinitely far in solving the problems that face the race.

Dr. W. A. Galloway, who wrote the preceding obituary at the request of Dr. Scarborough, followed with this tribute:

"The writer's acquaintance with Dr. Scarborough has extended over many years past. It was personal and always pleasant and profitable. During his long presidency of Wilberforce University, he was ex-officio member of the board of trustees of which board the writer was president for twenty-four years.

"His great value to this important work was therefore well and intimately known. A sincere appreciation is here given his valuable educational labor for the cause he loved so much and served so well. It must be added to the history of this distinguished educator, that his active life's work extended not only to the uplift of his own race, but as well and sincerely to every race and people of our great Republic.

"Among the many gratifying and interesting incidents of his work as a publicist, two stand out in my recollection as showing that worth makes the man and that in the higher realm of letters no racial prejudice exists. These are: When he delivered an address before the American Philological Society at the University of Virginia, an institution that had never admitted Negroes in any capacity except servile. There he stood under the portrait of General Robert E. Lee in the presence of a large audience, discussing a passage from Thucydides and received at the close, great and inspiring applause. Another was the invitation, while in Cambridge, Eng., from Cardinal Mercier, to attend the laying of the cornerstone of the New Louvain Library in Belgium. Many other notable incidents have been a part of his remarkable career, but these two well illustrate the exceptional place he enjoyed in scholastic fields.

"In the best interpretation of the word, he was and will continue to be remembered as an educator, patriot and publicist. It has been written that 'no man is a hero to his own physician' but this cannot be written of Dr. Scarborough. The writer was his physician for the period between 1890 and the hour of his departure. This friend of humanity patient and forbearing during the trying times and circumstances of his long and busy life, never faltered in life's amenities, never failed in his optimism and never ceased to labor for the public's welfare."
